President Johnson led the nation in honoring three dead astronauts in separate memorial services at Arlington National Cemetery and at West Point. The three had been killed in a flash fire that swept their Apollo space capsule while tests were being conducted at Cape Kennedy last Friday. Page A2.

Six and a half years after Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., called a Harlem woman a "bag woman" or graft collector on a television program, a check for $32,460 was given to the woman's lawyer as payment of a defamation of character judgment she had won. The check had been made out to the widow, Mrs. Esther James, and her attorney on behalf of Powell as an advance of royalties expected from sales of his recording, "Keep the Faith, Baby."

THE WORLD

A spokesman for the University of Hue said "disintegrating administration" of the Hue Hospital made it all but impossible for doctors to teach medicine. One German teacher charged that Vietnamese doctors had turned the hospital into a series of wards for private patients.

According to Japanese reports from Peking, a truce has been arranged between opposing units of the Chinese army that had clashed a week ago in Sinkiang province.

Appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Edwin O. Reischauer, former U.S. ambassador to Japan, challenged the views of the administration and said that the U.S. has been exaggerating the military and political menace posed by Communist China. Page A2.

SPORTS

A tough defense used by the Franklin Knights completely baffled the Dragon cagers last night as they fell in the Section 11 contest by a 61-46 score. Scott Hunter led the losers with 13 points. Four of the Knights broke into double figures. The Dragons, now 2-4 in the loop will host Meadville Friday night. Page A5.

The two county teams that played last night lost, but did do impressively well. Tidoute scored 82 points before falling to Sparta. The winners tallied 99 markers. Ed Ziegler had 35 of the Bulldogs points. Bob Burlingame had 22 points to lead all scorers, but the Eisenhower Knights fell to second-place East Forest 51-44 in the other UAWL game in the county. Pat McClellan had 16 for the Bears. Page A-5.

The UCLA Bruins drew all 38 first place votes in The Associated Press college basketball poll to retain a comfortable hold on first place, but, Princeton, Western Kentucky and Vanderbilt made solid bids to move up in the top 10. The trio all scored impressive victories in games last week. Page A6.

Mickey Mantle signed with the New York Yankees again for $100,000, but the Mick will move from the outfield to first base this season. Joe Pepitone will take the veteran star's place in centerfield. Page A6.

CASUALTIES HIGH AMONG VIETNAMESE CIVILIANS

As smoke rises from a village, a Vietnamese father cradles his dead son in his arms. Last Saturday in this area near Bon Son, First Cavalry Division troops conducted operations.

Monday, B52 bombers blasted Communist Troop buildups in the jungles near the Cambodian border, where 1,500 to 2,000 Viet Cong were believed to be massed.

Vietnamese Civilian War Casualties Top Military

By NEIL SHEEHAN
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — A statistical survey of hospitals in South Vietnam during December indicates that civilian war victims are apparently exceeding South Vietnamese military casualties.

To cope with this and other critical medical problems in South Vietnam, the United States has doubled its medical aid program there from $21 million in fiscal 1966 to $49.6 million during the current fiscal year.

A survey conducted by the U.S. civilian mission in Vietnam, informed sources said, showed that of 33,475 civilian patients admitted to all government hospitals there during December, 7.5 per cent or 2,510, were war wounded.

During the same period, according to official reports, about 815 South Vietnamese troops were killed in battle. For the last six months the South Vietnamese government has refused to disclose the number of soldiers hospitalized for battle wounds, but over the past six years this has averaged two wounded for each man killed in action.

There are undoubtedly many others, experienced observers believe, who never reach a hospital because of the primitive transportation conditions and other disruptions of the war. These victims either die without treatment or obtain help at South Vietnamese military outposts.

The survey also made no attempt to determine which side was responsible for wounding the civilians. The wounded included victims of Communist mines and bullets and villagers injured by South Vietnamese and American air attacks. But the majority, experienced observers believe, were probably wounded by South Vietnamese artillery and air bombardments.

Thirty nine medical teams are now working at hospitals in the provincial capitals outside Saigon and at dispensaries in the smaller district capitals; 25 of the teams are composed of U.S. military or civilian Agency for International Development doctors, nurses and technicians while the rest are from other foreign countries such as the Philippines, South Korea, Spain, Iran, Switzerland and Taiwan.

U.S. Army, Marine and Air Force doctors and corpsmen also treat civilians in the villages whenever possible.

New U.S. Missiles Threaten Defenses

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has developed nuclear-tipped missiles with improved powers for penetrating a kind of nuclear-ray "curtain" deployable by antimissile defenses.

The new warheads also pack more explosive wallop for a given quantity of nuclear material than heretofore, the government indicated.

The development — growing out of underground weapons tests at the Nevada Proving Ground last year — was reported to Congress yesterday by the Atomic Energy Commission in its annual report.

At the same time the AEC reported record-breaking activity in the nuclear power field during the past year.

The report made no reference to the pending U.S. decision on whether to build a complete, $40-billion antimissile defense system or rely on offensive capability as a deterrent to war. But it appears evident this latest advance in American nuclear weaponry could play a part in that decision — and perhaps strengthen the Johnson administration's hand in its call for Soviet cooperation to end any antimissile race.

Late last year Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said the Soviet Union had deployed elements of an antimissile defense system around Moscow. And he has indicated belief that even an advanced antimissile defense by either the United States or Russia could not completely thwart a nuclear missile attack.

The new warheads — presumably of the hydrogen variety — are already slated for production, if not already on the production line, the report indicated.

The AEC said steps are being taken to overhaul older nuclear intercontinental ballistic missiles to incorporate the new gains.

Finally, the report indicated that, aside from finding ways for improving the capabilities of nuclear warheads to penetrate antimissile defenses, American weapons have improved the explosive efficiency of all kinds of nuclear weapons — from missiles and bombs to land mines.

Apparently the advanced warheads have increased powers for penetrating a nuclear-ray curtain — consisting of neutrons and other subatomic rays — which would be loosed by nuclear counter-missiles detonated somewhere in the pathway of an oncoming offensive missile.

Knowledgeable scientists outside the AEC have long spoken about such rays being among the keys to an antimissile defense system — the idea being that the rays might cause the

Anti-Soviet Rioting Spreads in Major Cities

By FRED COLEMAN
MOSCOW (AP) — Chinese anti-Soviet demonstrations were reported last night to have spread from Peking and other world capitals to Hanoi, Izvestia said Chinese students and diplomats chanted anti-Soviet slogans in a "provocative demonstration" outside the Russian Embassy in the North Vietnamese capital. In a brief dispatch, the government newspaper called it "a hoodlums spectacle."

For six days thousands of Chinese have been staging sometimes riotous demonstrations outside the Soviet Embassy in Peking, and others have been launched in Paris and Baghdad, Iraq's capital. Yesterday came word of another in Sana, capital of Yemen.

In yesterday's demonstration in Peking, Tass, the Soviet News agency said, teenage Red Guards and others shouted anti-Soviet speeches and slogans over loudspeakers, then read off "death sentences" for members of the embassy staff.

The incidents were provoked by the beating of 69 Chinese students by Soviet police in Moscow's Red Square last Wednesday.

The Hanoi demonstration brought the Peking-Moscow feud to the capital of a nation trying to balance itself on a tight rope between the two Communist giants.

Vietnam Veterans' Aid Plan Proposed By LBJ to Congress

By KARL R. BAUMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson laid before Congress yesterday a package of money-boosting proposals for veterans of the Vietnam era, including higher payments for education and pensions.

For those entering service since Aug. 5, 1964, benefits would be brought up to a basis equal with those received by veterans of World Wars I and II and Korea.

Administration officials estimated that the cost of the package would be about $260 million for the first year with the price tag going up each year thereafter as the number of veterans on the rolls increased about 500,000 annually.

Even as Johnson's request went to Congress, the Senate Finance Committee beat him to the punch by approving unanimously a bill containing many of the things he asked. The measure is identical to one passed unanimously by the Senate last Oct. 16 only to die in the House when Congress adjourned.

Chairman Clin E. Taague, D-Tex., of the House Veterans Affairs Committee which approved the Senate-passed bill last year, predicted early and favorable action by his group on Johnson's request.

While Johnson's message to Congress emphasized particularly the role of those "fighting and giving their lives in the defense of freedom in Vietnam" the higher benefit he recommended would apply to Aug. 5, 1964, no matter where a man served.

Under one Johnson proposal, a recent veteran could for the first time receive educational benefits while completing high school work without this being charged against his later college benefits.

As a result of this, a veteran could, in theory at least, spend four years in high school — 36 months — with government help and another 36 months in college under the new GI bill which went into effect last June.

The maximum for a single veteran receiving educational assistance would be increased from $100 a month to $130 a month.

The present maximum for a married veteran of $150 a month regardless of the number of children he has would be increased for more than one child.

Each additional child above one would make the veteran eligible for an additional $10 a month.

Effective next July 1, pensions of disabled veterans, widows, and other dependents would be increased an average of 5.4 per cent, increases up to 6 per cent would go to those receiving smaller pensions, but officials said no increase would be below 4 per cent. The exact scale remains to be worked out. Under another proposal no veteran would lose his pension as a result of increases in federal retirement benefits such as Social Security. The present maximum income for a single veteran to be eligible for a pension is $1,800 annually and $3,000 for a married veteran.

Auto Safety Rules Issued

By B. DRUMMOND AYRES JR.
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The country's first federal vehicle safety standards was issued yesterday by the National Traffic Safety Agency.

As expected, the standards were a compromise between what the agency originally proposed two months ago and what foreign and domestic manufacturers had declared they could do.

Most cars, trucks, buses and in applicable cases—motorcycles sold in the United States on or after next Jan. 1 will have such standard safety devices and features as:

- +Seat Belts for all occupants, including an across-the-chest strap.
- +Energy-absorbing steering systems.

- +Rupture-resistant fuel tanks.
- +Door latches that hold in crashes.
- +Padding and softening of interior surfaces and protrusions.

- +Windshield defrosters, washers and two-speed wipers.
- +Parking brakes, warning lights to indicate brake failure and emergency systems to take over in case of brake failure.
- +Outside rearview mirrors.
- +A limited amount of bright metal that might reflect into drivers' eyes.

Many of these features and devices already are found on many vehicles sold in the U.S. But a number of makes and models do not include all of them, and some only a few.

The safety agency did not require. See SAFETY Page A2

GOP Confident On Constitution

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI
HARRISBURG (AP) — Despite any apparent headway, Senate Republican leaders emerged from a two-hour caucus yesterday confident that they can whip an acceptable constitutional convention bill into shape.

"The convention bill is not stymied," GOP Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup said after the lengthy Republican huddle on the Shafer Administration legislation.

"I'm certain that we can come up with a bill satisfactory to the Administration and to our caucus," Stroup said. It was reported, meanwhile, that the Shafer Administration plans to step up its role in the deliberation. Sources said Gov. Shafer plans to confer with various GOP county chairmen in hopes of loosening some of the internal opposition within the caucus.

The Shafer bill would limit the convention only to consideration of new articles for the judiciary, local government, taxation and finance and reapportionment.

It was learned that a few of the GOP holdouts would like to eliminate the judiciary article from the call. But this appeared slim since many consider the judiciary section the most important task of a convention. Caucus supporters could be expected to strongly object to the move.

It appeared, however, that the caucus was on the verge of writing in a new method of delegate selection.

The Shafer bill would have delegates chosen on a non-partisan basis.

In other developments: Mental Health — Senate Republican Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup and Majority Whip Albert R. Pechan sponsored a two-bill package proposing the establishment of a state Department of Mental Health with the secretary of receiving $25,000. Pechan, the prime sponsor, said it was not a Shafer Administration proposal.

Education — An Administration bill to permit Pennsylvania to join the Education Commission of States, a clearing house for an interstate exchange of educational ideas, was released to the Senate floor by the Education Committee.

Salisbury Takes Rap At American Press

By HOMER BIGART
(c) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — Harrison F. Salisbury said yesterday that the "shock value" of his on-the-spot dispatches recounting civilian bombing casualties in Hanoi would have been diminished had the American press not ignored articles by "respected" French correspondents who had preceded him to North Vietnam.

He told a luncheon meeting at the Overseas Press Club that reports of civilian casualties and damage to non-military targets had appeared in European papers before the printing of his own dispatches, which drew intense reaction in the United States.

"It would be fair to fault the American press for not picking up those reports," he said.

The "shock value" resulted in part from "the Pentagon's overemphasis on the accuracy of the bombing," Salisbury said. This information policy backfired, he pointed out.

Salisbury said he was not surprised by what he saw. The bombing was nowhere near the magnitude of air raids in World War II, he observed, and "a small number of people had lost their lives."

Some loss of civilian life was inevitable in such bombings, he said. In response to a question he refused to designate the American airmen as "pirates." They were merely fulfilling their obligation to their service and to their country, he said.

Two Airmen Die in Spacecraft Simulator Blaze

By MARTIN WALDRON

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

SAN ANTONIO, Texas — Two airmen were burned fatally yesterday when an oxygen-filled spacecraft simulator caught fire during an experiment at the Brooks Air Force Base school of aerospace medicine. One died inside the simulator and the other died about eight hours later in an Army hospital.

The accident was similar to the one that killed three astronauts at Cape Kennedy last Friday night. Both the Apollo 204 spacecraft

Col. George E. Schafer, vice commander of the medical division of the air base, said there was "no correlation between this event and the Apollo fire."

The airman who was killed at the scene was identified as Airman 2C William F. Bartley Jr., of Indianapolis, Ind. The name of the other was withheld by the Air Force.

The men, both technicians, had gone into the simulator — a tank about 6 feet high and 20 feet long — to clean up and draw blood samples from 16 rabbits that were confined inside the device.

The rabbits were to be fed pure oxygen to breathe for 60 days as part of an experiment to determine what happens to blood in an atmosphere of pure oxygen. The experiment had started Monday.

"We don't know how the fire started," said

Col. Schafer.

However, both airmen, who were wearing cotton clothes, were burned over their entire bodies. All of the rabbits were killed, and the inside of the simulator was charred. The fire lasted for more than two minutes.

Lt. Thomas A. Sullivan, a public information officer at the base, said that a technician who was monitoring the simulator discovered the fire when he saw smoke through a small port-hole. The technician "brought the simulator down," Sullivan said.

Pressure inside the chamber when the fire broke out was 7.5 pounds per square inch, about half the normal air pressure at sea level, and represented an altitude of about 18,000 feet, Sullivan said. "It took a minute or so to get the pressure up to sea level, and about another minute to open the door," he said.

The men were taken by helicopter to Brooke Army Medical Center at Fort Sam Houston, also in San Antonio. The center has been experimenting for several years on the treatment of burns.

The oxygen pressure of 7.5 pounds per square inch inside the simulator was less than half the 16 pounds per square inch inside the Apollo spacecraft last Friday, and consequently the fire inside the simulator did not burn as explosively as the fire in the spacecraft.

The two men who were burned were not wearing asbestos clothing because officials had no reason to expect a fire and "saw no need" for more protection than regular clothing, Sullivan said. Their entrance into the chamber was purely routine, he said.

Astronauts Buried with Full Military Rites

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three astronauts who died in their burning moonship were buried yesterday with full honors from their country. Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee lie side by side in Arlington National Cemetery, across the Potomac River from the capital.

Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II rests in the West Point Cemetery in New York, above the Hudson River.

President Johnson went twice to Arlington to stand beside the families of Grissom and Chaffee in the winter sun on a chill day.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Mrs. Johnson flew to West Point to represent the tribute and sorrow of the nation at White's burial.

On the hilltop in Arlington, a little boy wiped his eyes with the gray wool, billed cap he held in his hands.

Then Stephen Chaffee, 5, son of the astronaut, took his mother's hand and walked away from the gray coffin which the military men saluted.

Mrs. Humphrey, officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and members of Congress joined with Johnson at the graveside to pay their tribute.

Fellow astronauts were the honorary pallbearers for the three men who were buried.

At Arlington, six black horses drew a caisson bearing the casket of Grissom to the gravesite at 9 a.m.

Six black horses drew the caisson again at 1 p.m. for the Chaffee's burial.

At 11 a.m. friends and relatives gathered at the U.S. Military Academy's old Cadet Chapel, from which White's body was carried to the academy cemetery in the foothills of the Catskill Mountains.

The U.S. Air Force Band marched with the caisson for Grissom, playing slowly "Onward Christian Soldiers." Three jet fighters flew over as the casket bearers folded the flag that had draped the casket. The flag was given to the widow, who sat with their sons, Scott, 16, and Mark, 13.

A Navy band marched with the caisson bearing Chaffee, and three Navy F4 jet fighters zoomed overhead as the cortege neared the gravesite. The band played "America, the Beautiful" in measured time as the flag was folded for Mrs. Chaffee.

For Grissom and for Chaffee the riflemen fired three volleys.

A bugler on a nearby knoll played taps.

After each service, the President shook the hands of the families, leaning down to shake the white-gloved hand of Sheryl Chaffee, 8-year-old daughter of the astronaut. Little Stephen, clutching his cap in his left hand, stood up to shake hands.

The two astronauts lie 75 yards from the grave of the nation's first military air victim, Army Lt. Thomas E. Selfridge, who was killed Sept. 17, 1908, while testing a Wright Brothers' plane.

Former Ambassador Challenges Administration Vietnam View

By HEDRICK SMITH

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Challenging administration views, former ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday that the United States has been exaggerating the military and political menace posed by Communism in China.

Reischauer, an academic expert on Asian affairs who returned last August from five years as U.S. ambassador to Japan, also urged "prudent de-escalation" of American bombing of North Vietnam as a "step" toward negotiations—however "gloomy" the prospect for peace talks at present.

He asserted that it was a "psychological blunder" — a misunderstanding of the Asian mentality — for Washington to believe that the pressure and pain inflicted by the bombing would push Hanoi toward peace negotiations.

The major thrust of his four and one-half hours of testimony, however, was that the American people should worry less about the Communist danger in Asia and have more confidence in Asian nationalism over the long run as a check on Communism and Chinese expansionism.

Taking into account even Peking's recent development of nuclear weapons, he pictured mainland China as "an extremely weak power," no rival for the U.S. or the Soviet Union for 20 years or longer.

His views paralleled those of another former ambassador, George F. Kennan, who in testimony opening the hearings Monday, urged that the slogans, policies and outlook of the cold war be left behind.

"I am against interpreting everything in terms of the great international Communist conspiracy and seeing Communists as supermen," said Reischauer during a lengthy question-and-answer session with the senators. "They're not supermen. Their feet of clay extend almost up to their brains."

A committee room jammed with standing spectators heard Reischauer outline a four-point program on which he suggested this country base its long-range policy toward Asia.

—The U.S., he said, should try to "minimize our military involvement and military commitments" because American military power "is not very effective" in combating guerrilla wars and subversion and because "our vital interests are not likely to be threatened" in most places.

—The U.S. should "not try to induce" Asian nations into joining formal alliances with Washington because these are "no likely to be as effective in giving them security as their own unfettered nationalism."

—The U.S. should "not sponsor political, social or economic change" in Asian countries because this draws us into assuming "responsibility for the existence or nature of a regime." Reischauer did say, however, that Washington should be receptive to requests for economic aid that would promote progress, leaving the initiative to the Asians.

—The U.S. should avoid the role of "leader" in Asia, rallying allies to our policies" but seek rather to withdraw "to the role of a friendly outside supporter of individual or collective Asian initiatives."

Morton Calls on President For USSR Treaty Ratification

By JOHN W. FINNEY

WASHINGTON — Sen. Thurston B. Morton, accusing the administration of "timidity," called on President Johnson yesterday to press more forcefully for Senate ratification of the consular treaty with the Soviet Union.

The Kentucky Republican endorsed the treaty as "a safe and sound approach toward better relations" between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. But he cautioned in a Senate speech that the treaty was in danger of being thwarted in the Senate by the "timidity of purpose" of the administration and the "hysterical opposition" stirred up by "fear mongers."

Noting the opposition building up in the Senate against the treaty, Morton said "something more is required" than an indication by the administration that it favors ratification. "Only the most forceful and persuasive testimony" from the White House, he declared, will save the treaty from defeat in the Senate.

The State Department is preparing a presidential statement of support for the treaty for possible use by Johnson at a White House news conference scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. Whether the presidential statement will tip the balance depends in large measure, in the opinion of Senate observers, on how directly and forcefully Johnson deals with the warning J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, that the treaty would result in increased Soviet espionage in the U.S.

The treaty, signed in 1964 but never ratified by the Senate, establishes a legal framework for resuming consular relations between the two nations.

The treaty does not specifically require the opening of any consulates, although it is the administration's intention, if the treaty is ratified, to have each country open one consulate at the outset.

The treaty establishes new rules for the protection of American travelers in the Soviet Union — a point that has been emphasized by the administration. The opposition centers on the argument that the treaty, by providing diplomatic immunity for consular employees and opening the door to establishment of Soviet consulates, would provide increased opportunities for Soviet espionage.

Morton was the first Republican to speak out on the senate floor in support of the treaty. His appeal was aimed not only at the White House but at Republicans who have not yet committed themselves on the treaty.

lease the full text of the standards. Thus, it was difficult to determine exactly where the agency had given in to or resisted the pleas of the manufacturers.

The acting under secretary of commerce for transportation, Lowell K. Bridwell, said at a news conference that the full text would become available this week. He said the administrator of the safety agency, Dr. William Haddon Jr., had worked on the final draft of the standards until 5 a.m. yesterday. There was not enough time, Bridwell added, to print texts of the standards for newsmen.

The agency had originally proposed 3 standards. But only 20 of them were adopted yesterday, none in their exact original form.

The agency also moved back the date it initially had proposed for most of the standards to become effective — from Sept. 1, 1967, to Jan. 1, 1968. However, Bridwell said he expected that companies with model changeovers this fall — which means

Eventually the public health section of the AID mission in Saigon intends to have U.S. or other foreign medical teams working throughout the districts of each of South Vietnam's 44 provinces. While these teams perform preventive medicine, such as immunizations and minor surgery in district capitals and villages, other doctors and technicians will provide major surgery and medical care at the provincial hospitals.

So far 26 surgical suites have been installed in provincial hospitals. Ten hospitals are also undergoing major renovation and nine others are being built in provincial capitals where there is no hospital or where the facilities are completely inadequate.

Captured Cong Document Cites Guerrilla Losses

By JOHN LENGEL
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A captured Communist document made public here yesterday reports American operations have cost the Viet Cong control of a million rural South Vietnamese since 1965 and recruiting to fill guerrilla vacancies "presents a serious problem."

In the field, U.S. Marines reported two engagements in northern sectors. Spokesmen said they killed 49.

A company of the 26th Marine Regiment wiped out a guerrilla squad by killing 14 and capturing one as the squad tried to flee by raft across a river from the hamlet of Duc Ky, 11 miles southwest of Da Nang. None of the Leathernecks was hit.

Marines of the 7th Regiment, backed by naval guns, field artillery and air strikes, overran a collection of enemy bunkers and entrenchments on the coast 25 miles south of Quang Ngai. They said they killed 35 of the enemy. Their own losses were described as moderate.

Briefing officers told of other developments:

- Two regiments of South Korea's White Horse Infantry Division have killed 71 Viet Cong and captured 129 weapons in a new operation, called White Horse 1, launched Sunday on the central coast 15 miles north-west of Nha Trang. A spokesman said that, at the time of this accounting, the Koreans had suffered no casualties.
- Five-inch shells from guns of the U.S. destroyer Keppler sank five Communist cargo barges and damaged 10 from a fleet of 20 sighted off Dong Hoi, 40 miles north of the border. The shelling was part of a continuing effort by 7th Fleet warships to intercept North Vietnamese supply vessels before they reach Communist forces in South Vietnam.
- While dozens of fighter-bombers struck at Communist targets elsewhere in South Vietnam, U.S. B52 Stratofortresses staged two raids in the central highlands. One wave blasted at a suspected North Vietnamese base camp near the Cambodian frontier 17 miles west of the U.S. Army Special Forces camp at Plei Djereng. The second struck at a troop concentration in the area of Do Xa, 56 miles north of Kontum.
- Heavy fog and clouds limited U.S. squadrons to 38 missions over North Vietnam Monday. Among the targets was the Ninh Binh barracks area, 60 miles south of Hanoi. Navy fliers said they destroyed two supply vessels 20 miles south of the port of Haiphong.
- From North Vietnam came a charge that nearly 100 civilians were killed in Thanh Hoa Province during raids Sunday. A Hanoi broadcast said the high command protested to the International Control Commission.

Senate Democrats Seek Mental Health Department

Jamestown Water Expansion Program Hearing February 14

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — The water expansion program planned by the city's board of public utilities in an effort to double Jamestown's water supply will be the subject of a public hearing to be held in city hall Feb. 15.

The hearing, which will begin at 1:30 p.m., was scheduled by the New York State water resources commission yesterday and met with approval of the local DPU officials.

Commenting on the hearing, board chairman William A. Taylor indicated that the local officials had not expected such an early date. He added that "this will give us a little more time to get the project under way this summer."

The board of public utilities plans to drill new wells in the Town of Poland and erect a pumping station in the well field near Clark's Corners, with the hope of pumping an additional water supply eight miles to the English Hill reservoir in the city. The project carries an estimated cost of $2.5 million.

INSIDE APOLLO

Second Source Confirms Struggle

By JOHN NOBLE WILFORD
(C) N.Y. Times News Service

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. — Another source close to the Apollo program confirmed yesterday that the three astronauts who died Friday spent a desperate 12 or perhaps 16 seconds trying to escape from the sealed spacecraft in which they were burned to death.

Shafer Pledges Assistance To Urban Beautification

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Raymond P. Shafer told federal housing and urban development officials yesterday that Pennsylvania was "ready and eager" to participate in programs designed to make cities more livable and beautiful.

Pennsylvania, he said, already has created machinery designed to work efficiently and productively with federal agencies.

Shafer cited the state's Department of Community Affairs, established last year, which he said would coordinate all community-orientated programs.

He also said he would call a conference of Pennsylvania mayors in Harrisburg to discuss community participation in the federal Model Cities program. He added that the date of the conference would depend on when a federal representative could attend.

Shafer suggested two steps the federal government could take to aid the state's role in aiding communities:

- Modification of the federal grants program so that grants to communities could be made through the state in a block rather than on a single community application basis.
- A change in the law and regulations to permit federal credit to match state and local funds available for urban renewal and planning advances.

Shafer's suggestions were made during a meeting with Robert C. Weaver, secretary of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The governor was accompanied by Joseph Barry, secretary of the state Department of Community Affairs.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration would neither confirm nor deny an account, reported Monday, of how the astronauts shouted and clamored for help as the fire raged around them. The report was based on an interview with an engineer who listened to tape recordings made during the fatal accident.

The new source, also an engineer, substantiated the account. He, too, had listened to the tape recordings.

According to the sources, the astronauts first smelled smoke, broke out of their restraints and scrambled to break out of the spacecraft. The last shout was "We're on fire. . . get us out of here."

The published description of the last moments of the astronauts was said to have prompted James E. Webb, NASA administrator, to ask the special board of inquiry to release some preliminary accounts of what happened. The board, so far, has maintained a strict silence.

The report also raised serious questions among Apollo managers as to the moon project planners whether adequate safety measures have been built into the spacecraft. The astronauts apparently had no hope of escape because they had no time to release the sealed exit hatch.

It may take days or weeks, space age officials said, before the board makes a detailed report of the accident. Even then, officials caution, it may not be clear what caused the spark that set off the explosive fire.

Nevertheless, engineers here speculated that the disaster would lead to design changes in the Apollo space craft. Two aspects of particular concern are the spacecraft's doorway, the environment system and its exit hatch.

Much Remains To Be Done

A good-sized library could be filled by the 20,000 scientific papers, each containing previously-unknown information about the cardiovascular system and its disorders, which have been made possible by the eighteen Heart Fund campaigns since 1949. Research behind these publications, underwritten by more than 120 million Heart Fund dollars, has speeded virtually every present-day advance in the fight against heart and blood vessel disease. Results now are coming back to the American people.

Since the onset of massive heart research programs in 1950, with your Heart Association serving as the world's largest non-governmental sources of research support funds, dramatic results have been achieved. Among persons aged below 65 there has been a decline of about 15 per cent in the death rate from heart and blood vessel diseases. And despite an increase of about 5 per cent in the death rate from heart attack among men aged 45-64, this age bracket has enjoyed an overall improvement of about 7 per cent in its mortality rate from all heart and circulatory diseases.

This is real progress. As famed cardiologist Dr. Paul Dudley White says: "We are turning the corner." In his opinion, Heart Fund contributions have been among the wisest and most effective health investments ever made by the people of this country.

Much remains to be done. The heart and blood vessel diseases are still responsible for more deaths than all other diseases and causes combined. Vital research, education and community heart programs of your Heart Association must have the support they deserve. So give generously to the now-current Heart Fund Campaign.

J. Edgar Usually Gets His Man

WASHINGTON — Anyone who tangles with J. Edgar Hoover usually lives to regret it. This is axiomatic on Capitol Hill, but wasn't axiomatic in the state of Nevada last fall when Gov. Grant Sawyer, Democrat, running for reelection, charged the FBI with wholesale wire tapping in Las Vegas and waging "an invisible war against Nevada."

J. Edgar was really sore. The election boiled down, in effect, to one between Gov. Sawyer and J. Edgar Hoover — though Hoover remained silent on the sidelines.

In the end Sawyer lost, and afterward came to Washington to talk with President Johnson, Vice President Humphrey, and John Macy, head of the Civil Service Commission. All three urged him to accept a federal job. Finally LBJ came up with the offer that Sawyer become governor general of the Panama Canal Zone.

Sawyer hesitated, but finally agreed to accept the appointment. The White House then ordered the routine FBI check, and G-men started to ask questions in Nevada regarding Sawyer.

Either Hoover's men were not discreet in asking questions, or they deliberately leaked. At any rate their investigation got into the headlines.

There's nothing LBJ dislikes more than being scooped on an appointment. This J. Edgar Hoover knows all too well. So the charges are his Nevada critic will not be governor of the Canal Zone.

Alabama's ex-Governor George Wallace, who still pulls the apron strings in the statehouse, last week brought his soapbox to Washington, mounted it on Capitol Hill and kicked off his 1968 Presidential campaign.

Ostensibly, he came to appeal to Congress not to let the federal government take away $96 million in federal welfare payments from Alabama's "needy, aged, lame and blind." Actually, he was more interested in finding a national forum for another of his attacks on the big, bad federal government.

Wallace arranged through Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala., for a hearing before the Senate Finance Committee. It made no difference that the question is now before the courts, not Congress, and that Wallace himself had placed it before the courts.

The Civil Rights Act, passed by Congress more than two years ago, forbids racial discrimination in any federally financed program. All the other 49 states have filed the required statement of compliance. Only Alabama has held out, and now it faces the loss of federal funds.

Obviously it is Wallace, first as governor, now as the power behind the petticoat, who has jeopardized the welfare payments to Alabama's underprivileged — not the big, bad federal government. For the federal government has made no move to cut off welfare payments in any of the other 49 states which have complied with the law.

The case, which has been dragging on since August 17, 1965, is up for a ruling from the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. The Senate Finance Committee has absolutely nothing to say about it. Yet Wallace requested a full-dress hearing before the finance committee where he had the support of some friendly Southern Senators.

This real purpose was quite obvious the moment he stepped before the television cameras — he is running for President. And one of the chief issues, he told his TV audience, would be the federal government's "arbitrary power."

John Gardner, the quietly able Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, privately considered asking the Senate Finance Committee for equal time to knock down Wallace's arguments. But Undersecretary Wilbur Cohen, who guides the Department's moves on Capitol Hill, advised against it.

He pointed out that Wallace, ever alert to get his picture in the paper, merely wanted to trap the federal government into a controversy in order to pose as the great antagonist of federal power. So the case will be decided in the courts, where it belongs.

NOTE — Hospitals, nursing homes and other welfare institutions across the country, anxious to continue collecting federal benefits, particularly the new Medicare money now available, have made remarkable progress in abolishing discrimination. Federal officials say that more has been done in the past six months to bar discrimination in hospitals and nursing homes than was accomplished in the previous 60 years.

MASON DENISON

Two Places At the Same Time

HARRISBURG — It is perhaps amazing how Pennsylvania's senators have the ability to be in two places at the same time!

This is something we have tried for years — but not being of either mental agility or the mental ability of our senatorial greats we've never been able to accomplish this feat.

Unquestionably, the members of that august legislative chamber deserve a pat on the back — or do they? To illustrate the point:

Last week Senator Preston B. Davis, Northumberland County, was duly recorded on Senate voting rolls as having voted in favor of confirmation of two members of Governor Shafer's Cabinet. That vote took place in the Senate on Tuesday (January 24).

This is the lead sentence on a wire service story of Thursday (January 26):

"State Senator Preston B. Davis, R-Northumberland (the wire story said "Northampton") has been undergoing tests at Geisinger Medical Center since Monday."

And there you have it; Senator Davis in Danville's Geisinger Medical Center on Tuesday — and also voting on Senate confirmations here in Harrisburg the same day.

As we've already noted, we just don't have the mental agility or mental ability to be in two places at the same time — but by jove, members of Pennsylvania's Senate do, as has just been illustrated!

Actually, what we're trying to point up is a system that has been in vogue on Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill for years, it most certainly is no reflection of Senator Davis who himself has done nothing more on the "wrong" side than any of his colleagues would do.

The Davis incident is simply used to illustrate the point (and this column joins with his colleagues in wishing him a speedy recovery).

This is what happens however in the Senate:

Under what might be termed the "consent rule" in the upper chamber, a member may indeed be recorded as voting in favor of this or that bill — even though he isn't present, or for that matter even in Harrisburg.

The rule is applicable to both Republican and Democratic members.

It permits senators to be recorded as voting in favor of this or that non-controversial piece of legislation.

That "non-controversial" is important for it is only on this type of legislation that such consent voting of absentee members is permitted.

What then happens when "controversial" legislation comes up?

Under such circumstances the absent senator is not voted — unless it happens to be one of those close-to-the-wire votes where the absent senator's vote may be needed, in which event he is contacted to indicate his vote.

(On a formal leave of absence of course there is no such absentee or consent voting.)

Interestingly, this is not the case in the House of Representatives (with its electric roll call system) where a member must be present to vote.

Another interesting facet: neither the House nor Senate have any sort of "daily attendance" record of members; in other words, there is no official or true manner in which a lawmaker's attendance record may be assessed — that is, by the simple route of was he there or wasn't he.

Thus about the only avenue left for determining this is in the round-about way of checking roll calls — whether he answered roll calls or not, in the case of the House, if he answered roll calls he was on hand.

The Senate with its "consent" system? It obviously isn't the answer — and it gives a flatly false and untrue picture for anyone using the roll calls as an attendance check.

In fact, it gives a false voting record, when you come right down to it!

Fork in The Mother Tongue

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—English is the kind of language where grown people don't think it's funny to tell a child, "sit down and sit up."

It may be the only language in the world where a man with patience can "sit out" a "sit in," without feeling absurd, then go home and tell his wife he has been "sitting around" all day. English speakers find it easy to "sit still," but impossible to "sit loud." It is nothing for them to "sit tight," but ask them to "sit loose," and they go to pieces.

English is the kind of language where people can go to things like "pieces" without even moving. Through the miracle of English, a man can "go to pieces," "go to seed" and "go to pot" merely by sitting in a deep chair and tipping the bottle.

English is a language that makes it easy for people to denounce galleries for showing "abstract" art. This is because in the English-speaking world galleries are not allowed to show "abstract" art.

If Noah had been forced to navigate in English, he would have had to sail an "ark" on an "arc" (great circle variety) and might have made a terrible mess of animal preservation by getting his orders confused and trying to put an "arc" on his "ark" instead of a pair of aardvarks.

English is the kind of language where an army can be "decimated," but not "duoimated," "pentamated" or even "otomated."

Here is an odd limitation on English speakers: though permitted to "overcome," they may never "undercome." On the other hand, while it is perfectly all right for them to "undergo," it is so unthinkable for them to "overgo" that they never think of trying it.

So many of life's pleasures are denied the English speaker. This perhaps is why his newspapers are so filled with unhappiness. Recently, for example, the papers reported that "disgruntled" conservationists were "dismayed" and "disgusted" by the "dismantling" of the old Metropolitan Opera House.

How could they be otherwise, in English? In the first place, old buildings are simply not permitted, in English, to be "mantled," and even if they were, conservationists would be "absolutely forbidden" to be either "grunted," "mayed" or "gusted."

If conservationists awoke one morning and suddenly found the Old Met being "mantled," they might secretly feel "mayed" or even "gusted," but more likely, being prisoners of English, they would simply seek another old building ready for "dismantling" in order to have something to be "disgruntled" about.

"But," someone will interject, "that is a foregone conclusion!"

Of course. What other sort of conclusion is permissible in English? "A f i g o n e conclusion" and even just plain "gone conclusions" are impossible.

English is the kind of language where a "souse" may live in a "house" with a "louse" and a "mouse." Nobody thinks it silly to describe this situation by saying, "A mouse and a louse live in that house with a souse."

If, however, there is an entire neighborhood living in the same situation, the logical sentence—"mice and lice live in those hives with lice"—will outrage the English speaker. Perhaps even "enrage" him. He might "outdo" himself in "invective," but we can be sure that he will not "indo" himself with "outvective."

Later, exhausted, he may observe, "I'm done in."

To which the proper answer is, "You look done out."

English is the kind of language where a talky executive, determined to keep his plant operating despite his board's objection, can be told by the board chairman, "shut up and shut down," on the same afternoon the sports pages are reporting that the New York Mets have been "shut out" before a crowd that included 5,000 "shut-ins."

In the English-speaking world, no matter how hard a man tries to make something of himself, he can never succeed in being "kempt," "couth" or "ept." The only consolation is that regardless of his lack of alternatives to "unkempt," "uncouth" and "inept," he can never be "peccably" dressed.

English is the kind of language where nobody thinks it odd that a "bedlam" is not what happens when a bed sticks up a bank and skips town.

English is the kind of language where one of the favorite artistic themes is how hard it is for people to communicate.

The Calypso Revolution - I

NASSAU, Bahamas—The man walks into the ground floor of office as though trying to convince himself that he has a right to be there. The sign says Premier. He is Lyndon O. Pindling, the man who won the "Mighty Meekness" Revolution.

It was black against white; poor against rich; slave against master; s l o b against snob; the unwanted against the elite. When the votes were totaled, the Negroes donned the symbolic periwigs and took over the government of Her Majesty's 700 islands. It was done without anyone sustaining a cut lip.

The story is not in the new and cautious premier, Mr. Pindling looks out of his office window and counts the moneyed American tourists coming down the gangways of the big cruise ships and he has an ardent desire not to rock the boat. The key to the revolution is a man with a blue jaw and an iron chin.

His name is Randol Francis Fawkes. He is not a member of Pindling's Progressive Liberal Party. As a Negro, he was never invited to join the exclusive United Bahamian Party. The Labor Party is his, and, as its only Member of Parliament, he is the key to the dead tie between the Negro PLP and the White UBP. At any time, he can toss the Pindling government to the sharks by introducing a vote of No Confidence and casting his vote with the Bahamian Party.

Americans think of The Bahamas as fun islands; palm trees and jade seas; cheap rum and calypso natives; big fish and compact cars; bicycles and roulette wheels. It is these things and more. The Bahamas are a British bank for American dollars; a crown colony; the last western bastion of the white rulers and the native serfs. The difference between The Bahamas of 1667 and 1867 is that today the pirates wear wing collars and glacial smiles.

The conditions for a revolution are always pre-set by the losers. The United Bahamian Party did it by enriching its own while impoverishing the Negroes. The shopkeepers along Bay Street in Nassau are wealthy beyond the dreams of similar shopkeepers in the United States. For many years, the Bay Street boys controlled the politics and the economics of the islands.

They knew when the government was going to build a bridge, establish an airstrip, erect a hotel, license a gambling casino. After all, they were the government. And they could buy and dispose of property, and cut themselves in for a piece of the action anywhere, without risk. The rich became richer; the poor stopped laughing.

No white man watched Randol Fawkes with apprehension. He was nothing. He didn't attend London University, as Mr. Pindling did. Fawkes didn't even go to college. He was born in Nassau on March 20, 1924 and, after high school, worked as a secretary in a white law office. He became privy to a lot of "inside" politics, but the information was useless to a man who is powerless.

Divorce, Tax-Free Sick Pay

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)
If you are a divorced husband who must contribute toward the support of your children, you probably face this common problem on your 1966 tax return. How do you figure whether you or your ex-wife contributed more than half the support of the children so you are able to claim them as a dependency deduction?

Your wife has the upper hand. She knows or can find out how much actually was spent for support of the children. But you can't get this information without her cooperation—and that often is not forthcoming. Unless your contribution is so large as to be obviously more than half a child's support, you generally will not be able to get an examining agent if you are challenged in claiming a dependency deduction.

But as a practical matter, if you feel that you are contributing more than half the support of your child, you may want to claim the dependency exemption on your return, even though your ex-wife well may claim the same exemption on her return.

There still seems to be no way out of this dilemma, although Congress almost passed a bill last year which would have solved it. Let me warn you, though: if your return is examined, the agent almost certainly will disallow the deduction. And if you litigate, court decisions show that you are likely to lose because you can't prove what it cost to support the children.

If you are a wife who is entitled to receive support from your ex-husband but he doesn't make the payments, you do not have any tax deduction for the money you must pay out because of his failure to pay. According to the Treasury and the Tax Court, you cannot even claim this uncollected amount as a non-business bad debt which would give you at least a capital loss.

Many thousands of employees receive disability pensions which qualify as tax-free sick pay up to $75 or $100 a week. These payments are continued when the employee reaches retirement age, from that time on the payments no longer qualify as sick pay. What happens when the employer's retirement plan provides for an optional early retirement before normal retirement age?

The Treasury has taken the unfavorable view that a disability pension no longer qualifies as sick pay at the earliest age at which the disabled employee could have retired without detriment if he had not been disabled. The courts have repeatedly rejected this rule and allowed disability pensions to qualify as sick pay beyond early retirement age, either to the age at which most employees of that employer retired or to mandatory retirement age under the employer's retirement plan. In 1965 the Treasury announced it was re-examining its view, but then issued regulations that did not seem to change its view much.

If you received disability pay in 1966 which qualifies in whole or in part as tax-free sick pay and you reached your employer's early retirement option in 1966 (but not the age at which most of your fellow employees retire or your employer's mandatory retirement age), you have court support for continuing to treat the appropriate portion of your disability pay as tax-free sick pay on your 1966 return. But the Treasury may fight you on this point.

"Leased" life insurance is a relatively new method for selling financed life insurance. If you bought any, you will recall that one of the attractions was the suggestion that you might be able to deduct part of your "rent" payment as interest. In 1966, though, the Treasury announced that you may not deduct any part of your "rent" payment for leased life insurance—not as interest or otherwise.

A Harnessed River

Now that the waters of the Allegheny are being impounded to form the lake above the Kinzua Dam, there is quite a lot of speculation on what we can expect in the way of river flowage. Will we ever see the river waters approach flood stage again? What will be the expected flowage throughout the dry summer months? And, just what do they mean by "river flow augmentation" in terms that are meaningful to the Warren area?

These are questions that are being asked most frequently by local residents as our first experience in dealing with a controlled river draws closer with each passing day. And although there is no definite answer available, for the amount of water released from the Kinzua Dam will depend largely on existing weather conditions, some idea of what we might expect can be gathered from a Reservoir Regulation Appendix Design Memo for the Allegheny Reservoir that was prepared in 1958. An actual regulation schedule is being prepared and will be released in the near future.

In the meantime, though, it is reasonable to assume that the new regulations will approximate the 1958 version to a reasonable degree and the "answers" to our questions not too different.

So, what about flooding?

The 1958 memo states: "The Allegheny Reservoir, situated alone in the upper Allegheny basin, could act independently of the other flood control reservoirs in the Pittsburgh District for flood regulations at Warren, Pa., and other nearby towns. Because of its large storage volume and the high percentage of tributary drainage area controlled, virtually all flooding along this section of the river can be eliminated without difficulty."

At another point, though, the memo states: "Release from storage will continue at the maximum allowable bankfull rate of 25,000 second-feet until excess storage is depleted or until recurrence of critical meteorological or river conditions would warrant a return to the flood storage operations. Bankfull capacity should be discharged each year as this is commensurate with the natural frequency of a twice yearly flow event."

So—while we will be free of any danger of actual flooding conditions in Warren, we can expect to see the river running bankfull at least a couple of times each year.

Summer Flowage

The amount of water that will be released at the Kinzua Dam throughout the summer months is dependent on two things: (1) the amount of flow necessary to control the hardness of the river water below the point of contamination by some of the polluted tributaries, and (2), the amount of water flowing into the Allegheny river from all of its tributaries below the dam. The greatest draw-down is predicted over a 5-month period between July and November.

The memo states: "Regulation of the outflow for low-water control is based primarily on the quantity and quality of flow in the lower Allegheny River. The index for discharge is at Lock and Dam 4, Natrona, Pa., the station closest to the mouth where water quantity and quality demands are of primary importance."

"Because of the increasing importance being given to chemical character of surface waters with respect to industrial, commercial and domestic consumption, the aspect of improvement of low-flow Allegheny River quality was considered in the light of all available continuous records of such nature. The value of (Kinzua) storage as a diluent for the polluted lower Allegheny River is readily apparent."

The amount of water that will be discharged from the Kinzua Dam to overcome the problems arising from acid mine drainage and other pollutants will vary according to storm conditions that may exist over areas drained by tributaries of the Allegheny River below the dam.

If streams like the Conewango and Brokenstraw are experiencing heavy runoffs a lesser amount of dam water will be needed. And according to Tom Reilly, chief of hydrology in the Pittsburgh office of the Corps of Engineers, a minimum flow will be drawn at Kinzua so long as the downstream tributaries continue to flow above their normal rates. The flow from the dam will then be increased as these tributaries decrease their discharges into the Allegheny.

In short, there is ample reason to think that the level of the river will be held within certain limits. The old danger of flooding will be gone, as will the periods of unusually low waters that were so common throughout the summer months. From here on in the once wild and unpredictable Allegheny will yield to the requirements and purposes of man. A once spirited adversary has become a docile neighbor.

Knight, Bulldog, Dragon Cagers Defeated

Two County Teams Lose Loop Games

A pair of surprisingly close Upper Allegheny Valley League games highlighted the county play last night.

Both county teams were on the losing end of the score, however. The Tidoute Bulldogs scored 82 points but fell to Sparta who had 99. East Forest had big quarters in the second and fourth stanzas to edge Eisenhower 51-44.

A pair of fast breaking teams ran up the score on the Sparta floor. Earlier in the season the Spartans walloped the Bulldogs 120-62 at Tidoute.

Sparta played the game without their high-scoring ace Bob Troyer. The rest of the team took up the slack with Don Minnick leading the way with 32 points. Three other Spartans broke into double figures with Bruce Allen scoring 20, Hal Tubbs had 18 and Brent Allen added 15.

Tidoute played what coach Jim Bodamer called its "finest game of the year." He said that Bill Brown, despite his small stature, played a tremendous game on the floor. Bodamer said that all of his players looked well.

Ed Ziegler, a 6-0 junior, scored 35 points for the Bulldogs. Bob Bosko ripped the nets for 22 and Harry Hopkins rounded out the double-digit brigade with 11 points.

Sparta held only a 21-14 edge after one period. They did outscore the Bulldogs in every period, but only by small margins.

The Tidoute JV's trailed 30-5 at the half and rallied in the second half but still shorted the Sparta reserves posted a 39-29 win.

Sparta is now 7-0 in the league. They lead East Forest by a game. The Bears are 6-1 in the loop.

Eisenhower held Pat McClellan to 16 points but couldn't keep an early lead as they fell to the Bears 51-44.

The Knights led 11-6 after one period but fell behind 18-15 at the intermission. In the second half they were outscored 33-27.

Both teams had 19 field goals but the Bears hit 13 of 23 from the foul line while the Knights cashed in on six of 10 tries.

Giving McClellan a helping hand in the Bear offense were Rick Anders with 12 and Dan Motter and Bill Renton with nine each.

Big Bob Burlingame paced the Knights attack with 22 points. Gary Fry was next on the scoring list with seven points.

The Eisenhower junior varsity posted a 48-55 win over the Bear Cubs in the preliminary. In the other UAVL game the West Forest Indians held on in the final seconds to post a 79-78 win over Pleasantville.

The Indians led most of the way and built up as much as a six-point lead before the Falcons chopped the lead to a slim point at the buzzer.

Pleasantville had the gap down to one point with four seconds left. At this point they missed a foul shot, got the rebound and missed before the buzzer rang.

Three Indians, Bill Kaiser, Randy Custer and Larry Vermillion had 21, 20 and 20 points. The other 18 were added by Tony Kline.

Stan Perrett tallied 24 for the Falcons. Two other members of the losing squad hit double figures with Greg Holtz tallying 21 and Ron Galmish had 20.

Both teams had 36 field goals but the Indians hit seven of 11 from the foul line to six of 10 for the Falcons.

A pair of Allegheny Mountain League teams posted non-league wins last night. Brockway trimmed Elk County Christian 55-37 and Ridgway bounced back to beat Bradford Central Christian 73-62.

Pat Paruso and Bill Brumberg stole the offensive show from teammate Terry Green by scoring 16 and 14 points to propel the Rovers to a win over the Elk County cagers.

Ted Nedzinski and Art Werner had 16 and 12 points for the Crusaders.

Mark Johnson scored 22 points for the Ridgway Elkers in their come-from-behind win over Bradford CC. Three other members of the winners hit double figures with Ron Zamerowski hitting 16, Dan Pierce 17 and Sam Heatherdale 14.

John McVay led the Ramblers with 19 points. Culligan, Colestro and Keely also hit double figures with 16, 15 and 10 for the losers.

BCC broke on top 17-11 at the end of one quarter but trailed 30-28 at the half. In the second half the Elkers poured the coals to the fire and outscored the Ramblers 43-34.

Ridgway is now 6-11 for the season.

TOUGH DEFENSE DID IT

Dave Bierbach, 33, in the dark, gives an indication of the tough defense used by the Franklin Knights last night. Tim Law on the left and Don Walters on the right, for Franklin, have Dragon Dan O'Neil in a position where he can't find a place to throw the sphere. Randy Jones has his hand in the air anticipating a pass, but didn't get it. The Knights posted a 61-46 win over the locals. (Photo by Mahan)

Softballers Planning '67 Season

The City Softball League held a well-attended meeting last night to plan for the coming season.

President Ange Regina reported that the loop will continue to seek public support to help pay off its debt on the lighted ball park at Carbon Memorial Field.

Various fund-raising projects for throughout the Spring were discussed at the meeting to aid the loop in meeting its obligations for the lights. The labor and equipment at the park amounted to $22,000, of which approximately $15,000 has been defrayed through the donations of various individuals and firms in the county.

Regina expressed once more the league's gratitude for the donations, but he called for continued support among the loop members on money-raising projects.

The league plans to start the season with a five or six-team circuit, with play probably beginning in late May.

This will be the City League's 41st season at Carbon Park and its fourth under the lights.

The next meeting is slated for next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Pleasant Edges Irvinedale Five

Pleasant Township slipped past an improved Irvinedale team, 25-21 in Gra-Y League action yesterday.

Irvinedale led most of the way, but Pleasant outscored the losers, 7-2, in the final quarter to notch the victory. The difference came at the foul line, where Pleasant converted nine fouls to one for Irvinedale.

Steve Linman led the winners with 17 points and Tom Glossner chipped in five. Jeff Nuhfer's 12 points was high for Irvinedale.

Indians Have Tiant And Azcue in Fold

CLEVELAND (AP)—Pitcher Luis Tiant and catcher Joe Azcue have signed 1967 Cleveland Indians contracts and the American League club said yesterday it now has 15 players in the fold.

Tiant, 26, had a 12-11 record last season and five shutouts. Azcue, 27, hit .275 in 98 games and caught the American League's only 1967 no-hitter which Sonny Siebert hurled.

Shantzmen Dropped 61-46 by Franklin

By JOHN GANLEY

After one good game, the Dragons returned to their old form as they dropped a 61-46 loss to the Franklin Knights on the WAHS hardwood last night.

The Dragons are 6-10 for the season and 2-4 in league play. The Knights are 5-1 in Section 11 and 11-5 overall.

After staying right with the Knights for one period, the Dragons fell victim to a tough press sent at them by the visitors. From being only one point behind after one period, the Dragons fell behind by eight at the half and as much as 20 at one point in the third period.

Both coaches, Bob Irons of Franklin and Joe Shantz of Warren, admitted that neither team played a good game. There were a total of 42 turnovers, bad passes and violations in the game. The Dragons lost the ball 27 times. Fifteen of the losses were in the first half with the biggest percentage being in the second period.

In the first quarter the Dragons managed to stay close, if not ahead of the Knights. The locals pulled on top 13-8 with 2:18 left in the period. Franklin cut the lead to 13-10 as their fifth starter hit the scoring column. The Knights pulled ahead as Don Walters, Tim Law and Dave Bierbach hit buckets.

The Dragons' offense was distributed among Scott Hunter, Marc Segal, Steve Tundel and Randy Jones. The first two hit four points and the latter three each. The other two points came on a set shot by Mike Hesch.

After the first period all five starters had hit the scoring column for both teams. In the second period the Dragons froze up when the Knights went into their full-court press. Every time the Knights made a field goal they would come back with a press. Two times in the period they managed to steal the ball close to their own basket and score.

The margin at the intermission would have been higher had the Knights been able to cash in at the foul line. In the period they hit on two of seven shots. They missed the first shot on four one-and-one situations.

The Dragons, on the other hand, were missing from the floor and the foul line. Scott Hunter pumped in a two-pointer with 7:45 left in the period. Their next field goal came at the one minute mark when Segal connected from the top of the key. He had the Blue and White's last two-pointers at the 2:55 mark.

Two field goals by Rocky Burgert and one by Butch Henderson near the end of the second period sent the Knights into the locker room with a 31-23 lead.

In the third period the Knights quickly went ahead by 10 points, then 15 and 20.

Franklin dropped four field goals in the period to five for the Dragons. The visitors outscored the Dragons 20-11 in the period. From the foul line the Knights hit on 12 of 17 tries.

During the period a pair of Dragons, Mike Hesch and Steve Tundel, picked up their fifth personal fouls and took an early shower.

PRINCETON, WESTERN KENTUCKY, VANDY

Trio Making Strong Bid In College Cage Top Ten

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Princeton, Western Kentucky and Vanderbilt are off to head starts in an effort to advance in The Associated Press' major college basketball poll.

The Commodores were extended in defeating Louisiana State Monday night while the other two scored impressive victories.

Ninth-ranked Vanderbilt edged LSU 79-77. Fifth-ranked Princeton trounced Rutgers 97-74 and Western Kentucky, No. 8, overpowered Austin Peay 101-59.

UCLA, the No. 1 team, does not play until Saturday when it meets Southern California.

The powerful Bruins were unanimous choices for the top spot for the third straight week, collecting all 38 first-place votes in the balloting by a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

UCLA downed Chicago Loyola 82-67 in its only game last week, then lifted its record to 16-0 by crushing Illinois 120-82 Sunday. The voting was based on games through last Saturday.

The North Carolina Tar Heels remained in second place, accumulating 298 points, 14 more than third-place Louisville. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, etc.

The Tar Heels defeated Virginia 103-76 and Louisville advanced one place after whipping Bradley 81-68.

Texas Western climbed two positions to fourth. The Miners whipped Arizona State 56-50 and Brigham Young 85-76, Princeton, which beat Pennsylvania 70-66, held fifth place.

Houston dropped three notches to sixth. The Cougars were beaten by Washington 81-78.

There were no changes in the No. 7 through No. 10 spots. Kansas remained seventh followed by Western Kentucky, Vanderbilt and Providence.

Hope Classic Golf Play Starts Today

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Golf's winter tournament circuit switched to this resort last yesterday with the leading professionals entered in the annual Bob Hope Desert Classic, a five-day, 90-hole event with a record high purse of $110,000.

Leading the parade of the pros when the competition begins today will be Arnold Palmer, fresh from his five-stroke and second straight victory in the Los Angeles Open Sunday, and such winners of the Hope as U.S. Open champion Bill Casper and Masters champion Jack Nicklaus.

Palmer is no stranger to the perils of the Hope marathon. He won it in 1960 and 1962 and lost it in the playoff a year ago to Doug Sanders.

The Hope Classic is a test of talent and—pardon the description—the patience of the pros.

The pros are paired for the first four rounds with the willing and admiring amateurs as they play over four lush desert country club courses.

The professionals get a different set of amateurs each round for four days but on the fifth and final they go it alone for the real money.

Palmer, off his victory at Los Angeles and his winning ways over the courses involved here, merits the role of favorite.

A year ago, he and Sanders scored 349 for the 90 holes over Indian Wells, Bermuda Dunes, Eldorado and this year's host club, La Quinta.

In the 1966 playoff, Sanders sank a 15-foot birdie putt on the par-3 first extra hole at Indian Wells to win. Palmer had missed the green to the right of the tee with an eight-iron and that was it.

Sanders finished down the line at Los Angeles Sunday. His 282 for 72 holes was 13 shots behind Palmer's winning 269.

All of the past Desert Classic winners are back, including Palmer, Billy Maxwell, 1961; Nicklaus, 1963; Tommy Jacobs, who beat Jimmy Demaret in a playoff in 1964, and Casper, in 1965.

Threatened, Lewie Had Bodyguards

CHICAGO (AP)—Police revealed yesterday that Lew Alcindor was assigned a bodyguard over the weekend in Chicago after the UCLA basketball star had received threatening letters, before the team left Los Angeles.

Because of snowbound Chicago, the team was in town from Friday until Monday morning, playing games in the Chicago Stadium Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

During the entire stay, a police plainclothesman stayed close to Alcindor.

Arthur Morse, assistant athletic director at Loyola and promoter of the Chicago Stadium basketball programs, said the matter was treated secretly until the team left the city. He said that J.D. Morgan, UCLA athletic director, had advised him a week before the Saturday game that crank letters to Alcindor had Chicago postmarks.

Mickey's Moving to First Base in Final (?) Season

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—At the age of 35 with the end of his career in sight, Mickey Mantle will try to learn how to play first base this season to earn his $100,000 pay from the New York Yankees.

Mantle signed his fifth consecutive $100,000 contract yesterday at Yankee Stadium where he will be starting his 17th year as a Yankee April 14.

"If I should have a real good year and we do good, I think it (moving to first base) could add to my career," said Mantle in response to queries about his future plans. "I'll just have to wait and see how it turns out before we start talking about the future."

Mantle and Ralph Houk, his manager, agreed that the first base trial would hinge on the way Mickey's battered legs react to the change from center field to the infield.

"If Mickey could play first base adequately, we probably would be a little better ball club," said Houk at a news conference attended by Mantle.

"I don't know whether he can," Houk added. "Mickey doesn't know either. It's a difficult thing to do, after a period of days, Mickey will go back to center field. I have a feeling that if he can get acquainted with the bag it will save wear and tear on his legs."

"In center field a man does a great deal of running. When Mickey hurts his legs it usually is when he has been doing a lot of running in the outfield. We will start spring training with Mickey working at first base and Joe Pepitone in center field."

If it doesn't affect Mickey's legs, there is no doubt in my mind that he can do it. I know he can field ground balls," Mantle, of course, was a shortstop early in his career. But he never has played first.

"It's the only position I never played," said Mantle. "I used to pitch and catch some as a kid. Stopping and starting may be hard but saving all that distance running may make my legs stronger. The hardest thing to learn will be where to throw the ball on cutoffs and things like that."

"I'd like to do it good...don't want to be so bad that people will start to yell at me. I've seen a lot of guys play first base and I think I can do as good a job as some of them."

Mantle gagged it up a little during the news conference.

Boosters Hear Shantz And Weber Tonight

Basketball and wrestling share the limelight tonight at a meeting of the Warren Sports Boosters.

Cage mentor Joe Shantz will be present to discuss last night's game against Franklin and preview Friday's tilt with Meadville here.

The upcoming match at Meadville will be the major subject of Dragon mat coach Mike Weber's talk with the Boosters. He will also comment on films of an early season win over Erie Cathedral Prep.

The gathering is slated for 8 p.m. in the Hospitality Room of the Northwest Savings and Loan building on the corner of Liberty and Second Streets.

An important meeting of the club's directors will follow the program.

"While they are remodeling Yackee Stadium," he said. "They might put up a little screen to save some of the people behind first base."

Houk said the idea has been discussed for years but never too seriously until he and Lee MacPhail, the new general manager, talked about it this winter.

"When it was mentioned in other years the first thing you thought was that they were not happy with me where I was playing," said Mantle. "Now it's just for the good of the team. If I can play first base, I should hit a little better because I will be able to run better and play more games."

Houk pointed out that Mike Hegan, now in the Army, and Ellie Howard could fill in for Mickey at first when he needed a rest, rather than shift Pepitone from day to day. He said Hegan should be out of service by late May or early June.

"You should know about Mickey by then," a newsmen said. "We'll know about two weeks," said Mantle.

SECOND OF A SERIES

Championship Years: 1940-42

Warren, Gymnastics and A Man

(Editor's note: Following is the second in a series on Warren High School's State Championship gymnastic teams of 1940-42 written by George Cunningham Jr. Yesterday's installment traced the early history of the sport at Warren; today's article covers the championship years.)

By George Cunningham, Jr.
1940 saw the advent of a larger and potentially stronger gymnastic team at Warren high school. All members of the team from the previous year were back, plus Fred Irvin, Bud Matthews, Bob Bean, Bill Meade, Bob Roth, Sam Armstrong, George Wiedmaier and manager Keith Young.

Great things were in store for us; we now had a manager and Warren High gym team. To improve the situation, the school athletic department had also allotted a team budget.

This budget allowed the purchase of new parallel bars, installation of the horizontal bar, a new continuous tumbling mat and a much needed safety belt. We also had been outfitted with new uniforms and warm-up jackets.

Our long and strenuous daily and week-end schedule of the 1939 season began again about the time school started in September, although gymnastics is a spring sport. Our first meet wasn't until the following February. After about two months of this schedule, the school authorities made us eliminate the evening sessions. The reason given was that we were using too much electricity.

In spite of these minor handicaps we won all season meets, District IX Title, the western Regional Championship and qualified 10 men for the State PIAA meet at Penn State.

The State Meet of 1940 is now a matter of record; Harold Zimmerman was repeat champion in tumbling, won the horizontal bar, Ken Nelson was sixth on the horizontal bar. They were accompanied to Williamsport by Coach Fleming and "Y" Coach Ed Hasler.

May 13, 1940 was also a memorable date for Warren gymnasts. To quote the Times-Mirror of this date on the National AAU Meet at Chicago, Ill., "Competing against college stars from the entire country, Harold Zimmerman tied for fifth place in tumbling, Ed Anderson finished seventh and Dick Driscoll finished eighth in tumbling. Ray Sorensen and Gene Pring also competed with Coach Homer Fleming attending. The Warren team was the only High School group in the meet."

In keeping with the tradition of never say die, May 18, 1940 saw another group on the move to another meet. By pooling our money to pay expenses, entry fees and borrowing somebody's father's car, we journeyed to Pittsburgh to compete in the Allegheny Mountain Tourney of the AAU. This meet was open to all gymnasts from Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. We made up the name Warren Athletic Club on the way to Pittsburgh. It must have been a good name because we won the meet, as a team, with the following men placing: Harold Zimmerman first in tumbling and third on the parallel bars, Gene Pring second in tumbling, Ed Anderson third in tumbling, Ray Sorensen second on the side horse, George Cunningham Jr., third on the side horse.

A true gymnast is never satisfied to rest on his laurels, he must always seek competition. On April 22, 1940, a group of athletes under the banner of the Warren YMCA traveled to Williamsport, Pa. to compete in the state YMCA meet. Harold Zimmerman won first in tumbling and also took the parallel bars, Gene Pring was second in tumbling.

Fighters Weigh-In, Trade Verbal Blows

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ernie Terrell had a quick reply yesterday when Cassius Clay said Terrell is too timid to be the world's heavyweight boxing champion.

Terrell came back with a question: "Then what are you complaining about?"

The brief exchange, with former champion Sonny Liston standing between the fighters, took place after Terrell had practically ignored a long barrage of Clay remarks that ranged from "Terrell is a punk" to "Terrell is an amateur."

Clay was rarely silent as the two fighters spent nearly an hour taking medical examinations in the Astrodome ring where they are to meet in their showdown title fight next Monday night.

An announcement by Dr. Arthur Moers that both fighters were physically fit prompted no surprise but this announced weights were surprising.

Clay's weight was announced as 217½, Terrell's as 218½. Both had indicated earlier they planned to weigh about 210 for the fight. Clay's official weight for his Nov. 14 title with Cleveland Williams was 212¾. Terrell weighed 213 last June when he defended his World's Boxing Association version of the championship against Doug Jones.

Terrell wore boxing shoes when he weighed yesterday. Clay did not.

"I plan to come in at 218, hitting hard and regular," Clay said.

Most of the verbal exchanges in the ring were between Clay and Sam Solomon, Terrell's manager, but Terrell did break his silence a couple of times while the handlers were checking the gloves to be used Monday night.

"I dare you to change sparring partners," Clay said.

"It is a little late now for that," Terrell replied. Clay said he would drop by to see Terrell's afternoon training session.

"You'll be there for the benefit of the cameras," Terrell said.

As Clay was leaving the ring, Terrell said, "Hey, you all right?"

"Everything is cool," Clay replied. "This has been a nice show."

Clay earlier had told Solomon, "You are going to have to teach your punk to run faster."

"I have a beautiful dance to teach your man," Clay added. "Williams was a tougher fighter."

"How do you know?" Solomon asked. "Williams didn't touch you."

"Terrell is an amateur," Clay said. "I'm dangerous. I'm a pro. I can't be whipped."

There will be no admission charge for the contest.

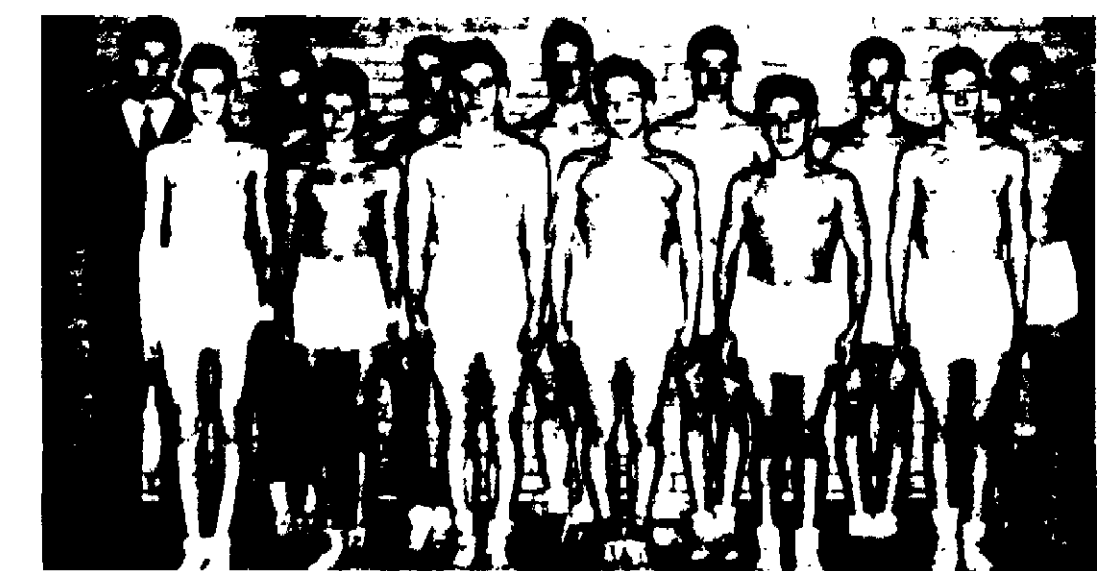

The EOC cagers are next in action Saturday, when they travel to play Venango.

Former Pro Gridder Heart Attack Victim

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Nick Susoeff, a member of the original San Francisco 49er football team in the old All-America Conference, died yesterday at his Palo Alto home after a heart attack.

Susoeff, 45, was an end for the 49ers until 1949. He joined the New York Football Yankees as an assistant coach for one season.

He is survived by his widow, Rachel, and four children.

FIRST STATE CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM

Quote from the 1942 Dragon, "The members of the Warren gymnastic team worked tirelessly to win the state title, but no one contributed more time and effort than did their coach, Mr. Fleming. It was through his brilliant coaching that gymnastics finally found the place they deserved among the other athletics of Warren High School.

Vietnam Rice Price Foretells Inflation

By JONATHAN RANDAL
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAGON—The retail price of rice in Saigon has jumped 30 per cent in the last month, arousing fears of a return to the serious inflation which has plagued South Vietnam in the past.

Government rice stocks are down to less than 50,000 metric tons, well below the level deemed sufficient to prevent speculation and hoarding, informed sources said.

Rice specialists, who noted that prices normally should decrease during the winter harvest season in the Mekong River rice bowl, blamed the increase on a combination of circumstances.

The most immediate cause was a delay in shipments of imported rice from the United States, which supplied Vietnam with 435,000 metric tons of rice last year. Roughly 600,000 tons are expected to be imported from the U.S. this year.

A 3 per cent annual population increase, a rural exodus from rice growing regions to the cities, and abandonment of rice land because of the war have combined to turn this former rice exporting nation

Oil Industry Faces Newer Competition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said yesterday the nation's oil industry faces new types of competition in the years ahead and all energy industries may be radically affected by new costs for measures to protect man's environment.

Udall told the National Petroleum Council that recent acceleration of commitments for nuclear-powered electric generating plants, pressure to produce oil and gas economically from coal and oil shale, and increasing insistence on pollution control all must be considered in planning for the future.

"The real issue is the value your products offer consumers in the face of competitive offerings of other energy forms and sources," Udall said in prepared remarks which were made available after he spoke to the council in closed session.

"The competitive inroads into coal's markets that proved to be so lucrative to oil and gas over the past 20 years are just about over," Udall said.

Reagan Presents California With Strict Economy Budget

By LAWRENCE E. DAVIES
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday handed legislators a "strict economy budget" of $4.6 billion and expressed alarm over an "upward spiral" in state government costs.

The budget prepared by the new Republican governor contained an assumption that tuition would be levied on students at the University of California and the state colleges. Moreover, Reagan was insistent that the state's higher education institutions be included in the "belt-tightening" along with all other state agencies. He referred to the reaction against tuition as "emotional."

He told a joint session of the democratic-controlled legislature that even with tuition and the sharp economies he called for, more than $240 million of additional economies or new revenues would be needed to bring about a balanced budget required by the state constitution.

In sharp criticism of his predecessor, Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a two-term Democrat, Reagan declared:

"Our task was made more difficult by the fact that we have fallen heir to the most serious fiscal dilemma that has faced the state of California in more than a quarter of a century."

Monday, in a televised "report to the people," he had charged that California's resources were "looted and drained" during the Brown administration.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh said that "certainly the governor couldn't have meant it as implying criminality" but added that "this makes it more difficult for those of us who want to cooperate with him to cooperate."

"It is interesting to note," Reagan said, "that the state's population has increased only about 3 per cent per year, and that the cost of living has risen only 2 per cent per year. In brief, while it has taken our population nearly 20 years to double, general fund spending has more than doubled in the last seven years."

He told the legislators that during the last several years general fund expenditures, which covered major items such as education, health and welfare had risen nearly 12 per cent every year, with a rise of more than 16 per cent evident this year.

He recommended higher taxes for alcoholic beverages, cigarettes and other tobacco products. Further, he urged that any possible new tax rates, including higher sales tax changes, become effective April 1 to provide added revenue to meet the heavy estimated cash outflow next winter.

Reagan's budget put the estimated revenue from tuition — at a rate given by Finance Director Smith at $250 to $280 — at around 20 million a year. Smith's estimated tuition for the state colleges was $150 to $160 a year, representing an annual total of $18 million. Proposed higher faculty workloads represented a decrease of more than $21 million in the recommended general fund appropriation to the university and $13.6 million in that of the state colleges.

Asked whether it was fair to say that "you are asking the University of California to take a 30 per cent reduction in its general fund budget," Smith replied: "Yes, but not in income needed for operations. It amounts to about the same as they had this year if they impose tuition and use their special fund." This special fund, which the regents have guarded for special projects, involves about $22 million.

Reagan, in his budget message, declared himself in "full support . . . of the preservation of quality education and enrollment of the largest number of qualified students possible."

"Quality education," he went on, "sets the very foundation for the success of our society. I am dedicated to that principle."

Corry Hatchery Land Purchase Approved by SFC
HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Fish Commission approved yesterday plans to acquire six tracts of land, two of them under Project 70.

The commission also voted to open future meetings to the public, beginning in April.

The proposed Project 70 acquisitions are both in Erie County: 61 acres near Foster Springs and a 17-acre tract adjoining the commission's hatchery at Corry.

Radio Peking Reports Mao Storming Enemy Citadels

By KAY TATEISHI
TOKYO (AP) — Radio Peking said yesterday Mao Tse-tung's forces "are taking by storm one after another the citadels" of his enemies, but so far Maoists claim control in only four cities. And broadcasts admitted trouble in two of these.

Far from Peking's control, such areas as Sinkiang Province, Inner Mongolia and parts of Manchuria are still in a state of rebellion against Mao and resistance is reported widespread elsewhere.

The Hong Kong Star in a report unconfirmed elsewhere said Gen. Wang En-mao, anti-Mao boss of Sinkiang Province, had threatened to seize Red China's nuclear base at Lop Nor in the south if Maoists try to take over the provincial government. Quoting "reports reaching the Star," the newspaper said Wang made his statement at a meeting with Gen. Liu Chang-chung, the political commissar of Inner Mongolia who also is believed to be backing Mao's purge.

Radio Peking, quoting an article in the party theoretical journal Red Flag, asserted that Mao's enemies are being "battered into confusion."

A Chinese-language broadcast said that despite more than a week "since power was seized in Tsingtao, a handful of persons in authority are continuously attempting to counterattack." The broadcast indicated Mao's foes were striking back through sabotage and strikes in Tsingtao.

With Tsingtao's reported fall, Mao's forces now claim to control four cities. The others are Peking, the big port of Shanghai, and Taiyuan, the capital of Shansi Province next door to Peking.

Resistance as been reported building up in the countryside. Quoting Chinese arriving from Canton, the Hong Kong New Life Evening Post said 100,000 armed peasants had been recruited in rural areas near that South China city. It said Mao's pictures and books were being destroyed in the villages near Canton.

Wilson Seeking War End

By LOUIS NEVIN
LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson is planning a determined bid next week to persuade Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin to join settling the Vietnam war and to avoid a nuclear arms race with the United States.

Informants said yesterday the prime minister believes from recent indications in Moscow and Hanoi that the Soviets may now be ready to take a more active role in the search for peace in Vietnam.

At the same time some British officials were puzzled by a disclosure that Kosygin is leaving Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko home during his week-long visit to Britain, which begins next Monday. They wondered if it was a deliberate attempt by Kosygin to downgrade the importance of the visit.

Senate Schedules Public Hearings On New Penal Code

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Senate Judiciary General Committee voted yesterday to hold public hearings on the proposed new penal code for Pennsylvania.

Sen. Clarence D. Bell, committee chairman, said no date was set. He added that the House has been invited to participate in the hearings.

"The hearings would probably start in three weeks or so," Bell, R-Delaware, said. "We'd probably handle a subject a day. We would prefer conducting the hearings with the House."

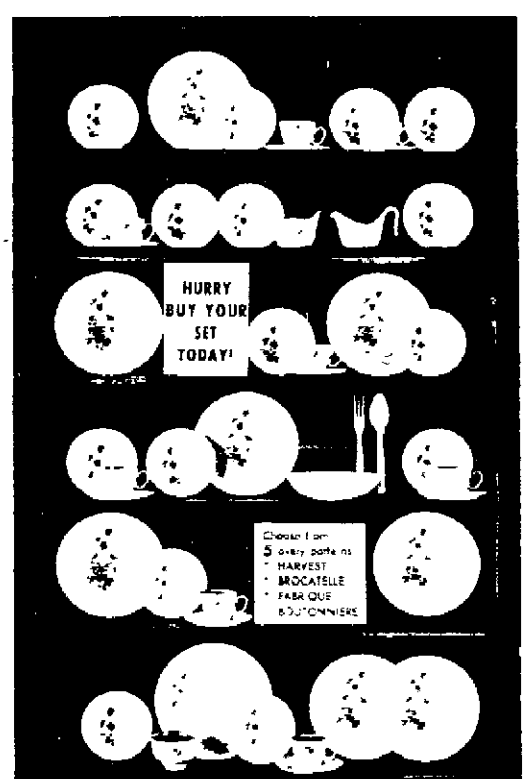

This would be the first legislative hearing of the session.

"There are a number of controversial subjects including murder, capital punishment and wiretapping," Bell said.

The code would consolidate all the various criminal laws in the state.

Name Delinquency And Juvenile Crime Group

HARRISBURG — Gilbert Nurick, Harrisburg, new President of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, today announced the creation of a statewide committee on Crime and Juvenile Delinquency headed by Roy Wilkinson, Jr., Bellefonte, and former Secretary of Internal Affairs Genevieve Blatt as chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, to deal with what Nurick described as "one of the most disturbing and challenging problems we face today."

Noting that Miss Blatt is a member of the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice which is now reporting to the President after a two-year study of the crime problem, Nurick pointed out that the new Pennsylvania Bar Association committee will be in a position to move quickly in evaluating the Commission's findings and determining their impact for Pennsylvania.

"The report of the President's Commission will undoubtedly contain recommendations for action at the state level," Nurick observed. "The Wilkinson - Blatt committee will be available immediately to review the Commission's recommendations and to undertake the implementation of those which appear desirable and require changes in the law."

The Pennsylvania Bar President pointed out that although the imminence of the Presidential Commission's report adds a note of urgency to the work of the new Bar committee, this was not the influencing consideration in the Association's decision to create such a committee. Rather, he said, the motivation was a conviction "that the Bar has an obligation to assume a more active role in helping to solve the social ills besetting the state and nation."

"It is incumbent upon us as lawyers to take positive and constructive action with respect to social problems in which the legal profession has a legitimate and unique concern," Nurick declared, "and I can think of no more pressing place to begin than the related problems of crime and delinquency."

Nurick said the members of the new committee were carefully selected "in order to assemble an aggregation of dedicated attorneys who have special qualifications to serve."

"Although the members were appointed exclusively on the basis of their individual merits," he explained, "it is both gratifying and significant to note that the committee includes persons of both major races, both major political parties and representatives of our three principal religious groups. There is also wide and varied geographical representation. All of us have a heavy stake in this festering problem."

Nurick stressed that the new committee "is not intended to duplicate or overlap the work of existing groups, but will seek to implement and supplement their efforts particularly in those areas in which lawyers are especially qualified to make a significant contribution."

He said a special effort had been made to include lawyers who would provide an effective and cooperative liaison not only with the Presidential Commission, but with such agencies as the Crime Commission of Philadelphia and the various groups of the American Bar Association which are active in this field.

Income Tax Digest For Retired Persons

For retired persons who desire legally to reduce cost of Federal income taxes, the National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons make available free of charge a new leaflet incorporating pertinent income tax information for retired persons in the clearest language. This Digest has already been distributed to the million members of NRTA-AARP through the Associations' Bulletins.

For example, the hints include: "If you were 65 or older at the end of your tax year (December 31, 1966) you are entitled to an extra $600 exemption in addition to your regular $600 exemption. If your spouse was 65 or older, she also is entitled to an extra $600 exemption. For Federal income tax purposes, you are considered to be 65 on the day before your 65th birthday. An additional $600 exemption is granted for blindness regardless of the age of the taxpayer."

"Dividends on stock you own ordinarily are taxable income, but you generally may exclude from income the first $100 of dividends on certain qualifying stock," the Associations' experts explain.

"Gifts, bequests, or inheritances received by you are not taxable income. However, if properly so received later produces income of taxable nature such as dividends, interest, or rental income, that income is taxable to you. Similarly, if property is donated to a trust and the income on it is paid, credited or distributed to you, that income is taxable."

"Veterans' benefits paid by the Veterans Administration to the veteran or to his family are exempt from tax. Interest you receive on a loan, or money deposited in a savings account, or from other sources is generally taxable," the experts remind.

"Endowment policy proceeds paid in a lump sum to the insured at maturity are taxable only to the extent that they exceed the cost of the policy. If the proceeds from an endowment policy are received in installments, rather than in a lump sum, they are treated as annuity payments."

Industrial Development Funds Sought by Shafer

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer's proposal to add $15 million to the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority for its use this current fiscal year is being considered by the Senate.

The measure, presently in the Appropriations Committee, was introduced Monday by three Republicans and one Democrat.

Gov. Shafer pushed for the money in his State of the Commonwealth message to the legislature last Tuesday.

He said the PIDA program was "so successful" it has run out of money.

The governor proposes to make an "emergency transfer" of the $15 million from the State Employees' Retirement

House Releases Move Backed by Boat Owners

HARRISBURG (AP) — One of two proposed constitutional amendments backed by the Shafer Administration was released from House committee yesterday, while the other was held back for possible change.

Given initial approval by the State Government Committee was a proposal that would allow gasoline tax revenue and motor license fees to be used for maintenance of waterways.

Boating enthusiasts have promoted similar legislation in recent years, arguing that they contribute a sizable portion of revenue to the state through the purchase of gasoline and payment of fees.

The second proposed amendment, facing possible change, would authorize the legislature to give a tax break to persons over 65 years of age whose income is less than $3,500.

Majority Leader Lee A. Donaldson Jr., R-Allegheny, said there was an objection to the inclusion of a specified amount in the constitution.

"This is the very thing we are trying to delete from the constitution through article-by-article amendments," Donaldson said after the House had adjourned for the week.

"We're thinking about striking out any reference to a specific amount, leaving this to the discretion of the legislature. While $3,500 may be an equitable figure today, it may be completely unrealistic a few years from now."

During its brief meeting, the Fund to PIDA. The fund would be reimbursed later.

There has been some Democratic disfavor expressed at this plan. Some say the money should come from the general fund, instead.

Sponsoring the Senate measure were Democratic Sen. Martin L. Murray, Luzerne County, and Republican Sens. John T. Van Sant, Lehigh; William B. Lentz, Dauphin; and John H. Ware, Chester.

Another PIDA bill was introduced by Sens. Ernest P. Kline, D-Beaver; and Robert D. Fleming, R-Allegheny, the President Pro Tempore.

This bill would include business or professional enterprises within the term "industrial development project."

House, adopted a bipartisan resolution proposing a legislative investigation of conditions at the Allegheny County Jail.

If concurred in by the Senate, the resolution would authorize a 10-member committee to investigate living conditions, morale, and discipline within the jail.

The committee would also study the feasibility of transferring jurisdiction over the Allegheny County Workhouse to the Commonwealth.

Bell Telephone Plans to Test Anti-Smog Devices

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania said yesterday it plans to equip some of its motor vehicles with anti-smog devices for testing and experimental purposes.

The company said in a statement that the move signals the start of a new policy that ultimately will require anti-pollution devices on all its passenger cars and its light truck fleet.

The U.S. Public Health Service estimates that motor vehicles pour some 85 million tons of contaminants into the atmosphere yearly, creating a threat to health and causing property damage.

Bell said 25 to 30 vehicles will be equipped with exhaust emission controls at the outset. They will be tested throughout the state under varied conditions,

Ground Broken for Dormitories at ESC

Ground was broken Monday, at Edinboro State College for two 400-student dormitories, the largest single construction project thus far on campus. The 4-story buildings will be basically men's dorms but will be compatible for coeds. Located next to the Periphery Road near Perry Lane, the buildings will be completed August 1968.

The buildings will have large recreation areas in the basements along with a central laundry room. Both will feature project rooms for special studies such as art work which entails painting and building. On each floor in the center core of the buildings are large study rooms for the students on each floor. On the first floor of the main office is a uniquely planned parents' lounge. These two buildings will have accessible elevators.

The bedrooms will contain individual wardrobes, built-in desks and dressers with large comfortable lounge chairs. Each room will be connected with the front desk in the main lobby by an intercom telephone. Exterior parking spaces will accommodate 15 visitors. A large recreational area around each building has been set aside for baseball, basketball and other sports activities.

Both buildings will be electrically heated and ventilated and constructed in the matching existing brick of other buildings.

The General contract has been accepted by Allegheny Building Co., Division of Parish Co., Inc., 429 Forbes Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., for $2,796,000.

Ventilating will be done by the Dougherty Co., Inc., 106 Fifth St., Freeport, Pa., with a working budget of $51,906.

Trico Electric, Inc., 2218 East 30th St., Erie, Pa., bid the electrical and electrical heating contract at $824,000.

Two Traffic Accidents In Vicinity

State police of the Warren substation were called to the scene of two separate accidents which occurred Monday.

Trooper John D. Barnes is continuing his investigation of a 2 a.m. mishap on the Chapman Dam rd.

Barnes said a car owned by Jack R. Lane, of Tiona, was traveling north on Chapman Dam rd., when it apparently left the highway, struck an embankment on the west term, spun back onto the highway and turned over on its side.

The accident was reported to the substation at 3:50 a.m. Monday and the car had been removed from the scene when the investigating officer arrived.

Barnes stated the occupants of the vehicle, Harry S. Snyder, 30, suffered minor injuries, and Lowell A. Blum, 26, both of RD 1, Clarendon, were taken to Warren General Hospital by the Clarendon Fire Dept., where when interviewed by hospital officials and police, conflicting statements were given by the men.

Damage to the car involved was estimated at $200.

Trooper Harry W. Jabo reported a two-car accident which occurred Monday afternoon on Route 62 where he said, a car driven by Robert Blum, of Irvine, Pa., traveling north, struck the rear of a second northbound car operated by John E. Rowan, of 128 Wood st., Clarion.

According to Jabo, the Rowan vehicle came to a sudden stop to avoid a head-on collision when a tractor-trailer, traveling south, swung into the northbound lane. Police said the Blum car was unable to stop in time.

Total damage was listed at $250.

Penelec Will Operate Keystone Power Plant

Keystone Generating Station, the pace-setting mine-mouth power plant being built near Shelocta, will be operated by the Pennsylvania Electric Company, it was announced today by the Keystone owners.

The owners, who include Atlantic City Electric Company, Baltimore Gas & Electric Company, Delmarva Power & Light Company, Jersey Central Power & Light Company, Pennsylvania Power & Light Company, Philadelphia Electric Company and Public Service Electric & Gas Company, selected Penelec as station operator because it has other generating stations and experienced personnel in the area.

Ralph F. Bovier, Penelec vice president-technical, announced that Ralph W. Conrad, formerly Superintendent of the Shawville Generating Station has been named Superintendent of the Keystone Station, which is being built on the Indiana-Armstrong County line ten miles west of Indiana Borough.

The first 900,000 kilowatt unit at Keystone is scheduled to begin commercial operation this summer and a second equal-sized unit is scheduled for operation in late 1968.

Power from the plant will flow to the owner companies over two 500,000 volt transmission lines now under construction. Penelec will own 103 miles of these EHV lines, from Keystone to the Juniata County line where Pennsylvania Power & Light assumes responsibility for power transmission.

The power station operating contract provides that Penelec shall conduct all functions normally associated with operating a power plant with only actual costs to be reimbursed by the owners in proportion to their equity in Keystone Station.

For operating purposes Keystone will be integrated into Penelec's Generating Division, which operates stations at Seward, Shawville, Warren, Saxton, Erie, Clarion, Williamsburg, Raystown, Warrior Ridge, Benton, Oakland and Deep Creek (Md.).

Conrad, a mechanical engineering graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, joined Penelec in 1952 as a cadet engineer at the Seward Station. He was assigned to the Shawville Generating Station near Clearfield in 1957 as station mechanical engineer, was advanced to Operating Superintendent there in August 1963 and was appointed superintendent of the 630,000 kilowatt station in December 1963.

He is a graduate of the University of Michigan's Public Utility Executive Program, is a registered professional engineer and is a member of both the Pennsylvania and National Societies of Professional Engineers.

Hints From Heloise

Dry Cleaning Cotton

DEAR FOLKS:

I have been testing do-it-yourself dry cleaning machines, and I think they are wonderful.

But have you ever thought of dry cleaning your cotton garments in them?

Those blouses we use for everyday, or children's clothing with spots that will not come out when we launder them at home — can all be dumped into one of these fabulous machines.

The cleaning fluid used in these machines will remove spots and soil marks you and I cannot possibly get out in our home laundry machines.

But the greatest thing I found out was that I had less ironing to do!

Nearly every one of my beautiful drip-dries did not even require a touch-up job with my iron.

The trick is to take your own hangers.

When that machine stops, IMMEDIATELY take out the garments, fluff them in the air, shake 'em a little and put them up on those coat hangers.

And I suggest that you don't use plastic coat hangers for this. Metal ones are the best. Preferably the type which are covered with tissue.

While you are at it, why not add a few of your husband's ties (the ones with the gray stains), or a few of your good linen dinner napkins that have lipstick and butter stains on them that you can never really get cleaned.

The dry cleaning solvent will remove most of the stains that you are unlikely to remove at home.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Rings from the top of metal beverage cans are the very thing to use for sewing into cafe curtains for the kitchen, bathroom or the children's room.

They are especially handy for people who like to make their own curtains.

Mickie Davenport

DEAR HELOISE:

Here are uses for pickle juice:

I save it to sprinkle on my green salads, for it has less calories than oil dressing.

I also find that strong onions sliced into the juice and left awhile, will be less biting and have a more delicious taste.

Cucumbers are wonderful when sliced into any leftover pickle juice.

If the juice gets low before you have a new batch, add a little vinegar and water to what you have. Not quite as tasty but still good.

DEAR HELOISE:

Watch out when using vacuum cleaners around cars.

Be sure you are standing in a dry area . . . or better yet, get completely inside the car before turning on the cleaner. The rubber tires will protect you if there is an electrical short circuit.

DEAR HELOISE:

To me, this is a letter of laughter.

Girls! Keep your size 10 figure: Never buy shirts or any loose-fitting garments. Always wear dresses, skirts or slacks with tight-fitting waists.

Wherever, whenever or whatever you eat, the minute that waistband starts feeling tight, stop eating!

Don't you dare undo that button! It's worked for me, right through middle-age "no-spread."

DEAR HELOISE:

Although I am only 12 years old, here is a helpful hint for mothers with small children.

If your children like to blow bubbles, put a few drops of food coloring in the bubble solution.

It keeps them busy for hours.

Givenchy Draws Out The 'Elegant, Beautiful, Superb'!

PARIS (AP) — "Elegant, beautiful, superb," was the way buyers summed up Givenchy's spring and summer fashion collection today.

Givenchy showed to buyers only, with a presentation for the press set for next month. Buyers had raves for Givenchy's sleeveless dresses, belted blouses and soft evening and cocktail dresses.

One navy coat had a wide white-leather belt fitted at the front of the waist. It was in a small herringbone. Coat belts are shaped in the back and drop to about the low hipline. They are higher in the front.

One of the most important buying office heads said: "What a relief to see a real couture collection devoid of gimmicks and bloomers. Except for beachwear."

Givenchy went his own way, designing clothes for people who have the money, the time to wear them and a love of beauty. The word elegance kept popping up from all categories of buyers, from stores to New York manufacturers.

The collection is soft and feminine. Coats have restrained dolman or raglan sleeves. Gold chains are used. Shaping honors with leather belts. Sometimes the two are combined. Some shoulder tabs appear on coats, also touched with metal gilt or copper.

Suits have mostly sleeveless weskits. The suits are plaid or checked with the vest plain. Some have plaid sleeves. Givenchy likes navy and there are some good navy worsted suits striped in white.

FOOD COST SAVER HELPS FIGHT INFLATION

A Food Cost Saver to quickly evaluate the true cost of packaged products, canned and frozen foods, detergents, baby foods and cake mixes, has been created for the homemaker by Ekco Housewares Company.

The handy aid fits into pocket or purse where it can be quickly withdrawn for calculations and comparisons of actual costs of grocery products equal in quality.

Made of sturdy laminated cardboard, the Food Cost Saver is simple to operate: the homemaker merely lines up a package's weight on the Saver's inner dial with the package price on the Saver's outer dial. Then the true cost per ounce automatically appears at the tip of the Saver's purple arrow indicator.

For example, if there are two boxes of brand "X" cereal being offered on the grocery's shelf, a 13 oz. size selling for 39 cents and an 18 oz. size selling for 63 cents, which is the better buy?

A quick twist of the dial on the Food Cost Saver shows right away that the 13 oz. package is offering you the cereal at 3 cents an ounce while the larger package will actually cost you 3 1/2 cents per ounce. (Large size packages do not always mean a savings for the consumer.)

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Something has been bothering me and I don't know who to ask, so I am turning to you.

This friend I am writing about is a nice person, but when I say she is of average intelligence I am giving her a break. Grace graduated from high school and I'll bet she hasn't read a book since. She can barely carry on a decent conversation, yet I have seen her sit down and work out a crossword puzzle in record time, filling in words like zibeline, Yahwist and lytta. How come the big dumb-bell knows that xylan is a yellow gummy pentosan found in woody tissues and yields eylose upon hydrolysis?

Please explain how a person of mediocre intelligence suddenly turns brilliant when she works out crossword puzzles? — BEMUSED

DEAR BE: Crossword buffs learn off-beat and little known words because they sit with a dictionary in their laps and check the completed puzzle when it appears the following day.

To be able to knock out a crossword in record time is no proof of intelligence or general knowledge. If a person plays any game long enough he's bound to learn the gimmicks. (P. S. I know a three letter word for rodent and beyond that I'm stuck.)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You're probably fed up on letters from Wall Street Warriors and I don't mean to belabor the issue, but I'd like to add one more comment.

I refer to the statement that hard-working professional and business men who spend themselves elsewhere and are too tired for romance got that way because they CHOSE to. Please add, Ann Landers, that the same can be said of wives who spend themselves on the garden club, the Ladies Aid, the children, the laundry, and the housework.

Years ago a clergyman's wife complained that her husband became romantic every Sunday night after his sermon had been delivered and the pressure was off. The wife said Sunday night didn't suit her at all because Monday morning was her hardest day. She had to get up early and do an enormous washing. Your advice was perfect. You told her to do her washing on Tuesdays.

Please publish my letter. It contains a moral worth repeating. — CHUCK WHO LOVES YOU

DEAR CHUCK: Here's your letter and I love you, too. Any reader who can come up with a line I wrote six years ago wins my undying devotion.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm getting tired of reading letters from wives who are dreading the day when their husbands retire. The last woman who wrote said she would go out of her mind if her husband sat around the house all day like the retired husbands of her friends.

How come she didn't go out of her mind all those years when she was playing bridge and her husband was breaking his back to pay her bills? Now that he has earned his day of rest he is not welcome in his own home.

When my husband retired we really began to live. We went fishing together, took motor trips, we gardened, built birdhouses and just enjoyed each other's company. He passed away at 72 and I can truthfully say the last six years of his life were our happiest. — ONE WHO KNOWS

DEAR ONE: A low bow to you and to other wives of retired men who have made those retirement years "the happiest." Your husband could not have done it alone, dear.

A 1950 Sheffield High School graduate Mr. Wagner served in the United States Navy, came home and went in business with his father. Four years ago he entered Edinboro State College's Warren Campus, going on to the college itself in Edinboro for the junior and senior years. He also took summer courses at Chautauqua from Syracuse University.

Last September Mr. Wagner joined the faculty of Sheffield Elementary School, where he teaches fourth, fifth and sixth grade mathematics and health education. This coming summer he will begin work toward his Master of Arts degree in School Administration at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa.

Miss Linda C. Weldon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Weldon, 6 LeRoy street, Warren, was named to the Dean's List at the Indiana State University of Pennsylvania, at Indiana, Penna. Miss Weldon, a sophomore is beginning studies at The Pennsylvania State University for the spring term in April, where she will continue to major in Business Education.

Dan Harpster Teaches WSCS Songs From New Hymnals

Mr. Dan Harpster, director of instrumental music at Warren Area High School, and a member of the First Methodist Church choir, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the First Methodist WSCS, Mrs. S. Knox Harper presented him to those present.

His program provided an interesting and informative session on the background and use of the new Methodist hymnal. Mr. Harpster played several records of new hymns sung by the Albion College choir of Albion, Michigan. The members of the WSCS later sang the hymns under the direction of Mr. Harpster.

After the program, the Jason Lee Circle served refreshments. Mrs. Robert Alexander, president, presided at the meeting which preceded the program, and Miss Dorothy Kottcamp gave devotions.

Recipes using yeast usually call for scalded milk. To scald milk, heat over direct low heat until bubbles appear around the edge or over simmering water until a thin film appears on top of the milk.

What'll they copy next year?

Other carmakers have already tried to copy our solid grille, our stacked head gills, even Wheel-Track. Of course, they haven't learned how to put them together right. Which is probably why people are buying 1967 Pontiacs even faster than they bought 1966 Pontiacs. And 1966 was our best year ever.

It seems that a lot of people don't want to wait around for innovations like our disappearing windshield wipers (articulated wipers—sweepers—the wind you still get only on Pontiacs). And for imaginative options like our exclusive hood mounted tach.

People like the idea that powerful 400 cu. in. V-8s are standard on all the big Pontiacs this year. And that nobody has even come close to the regular gas 165-hp Overhead Cam Six that powers our Tempest series.

And people like knowing that all Pontiacs and Tempests come with the complete General Motors safety package.

Of course, somebody else may come up with a pretty good imitation of a 1967 Pontiac in a year or two. But why wait? Your Pontiac dealer has the real thing right now.

4-H Club Needle and Hare Elects Officers

The Needle and Hare 4-H Club held its first monthly meeting for this year at the home of Isaac Borland on Logan road.

Last year's president, Corey Bonning, presided and the following new officers were elected: Julie Wendell, president; Dan Farrell, vice president; Isaac Borland, secretary; Clifford Sampson, news reporter; Tom Loree, social chairman; Carol Uhlig, song leader.

Mrs. June Johnson agreed to head the refreshment committee.

Assistant County Agent Norman Perschke and Mr. Isaac H. Borland discussed the projects for the coming year.

After the business of the meeting was concluded, refreshments of homemade ice cream and cupcakes, with Kool-Aid were served, and relay games were played.

New Service Helps Teach Current Events

With 66 million American students in classrooms this year, the U. S. is witnessing a massive effort to learn more, learn faster and learn better.

Technology, business, and the education community are combining forces to uncover new and better ways of improving and accelerating the learning process.

Innovations in schools as a result are many. Computers, closed circuit television and overhead projectors are all playing roles. There are also vast arrays of new curriculum materials that permit new ways of teaching learning and are compatible with the modern day equipment.

For example, current events now come into the classroom while still current with such tools as the new weekly publication "News Focus" written and edited by the editors of "Newsweek" Magazine and marketed by 3M Company. The magazine covers national and international news in a format that allows teachers to present it to the class visually by means of a transparency projected on an overhead projector.

Developed primarily for junior and senior high school students, "News Focus" brings alive developments in science, medicine, religion and the arts as well as other news to help students understand history in the making.

DEFENDS AMERICAN ACTION

WAHS Grad On Leave After Vietnam Hitch

Spec. 4, Patrick T. Casey, home from a 11½ months tour of duty in Vietnam, is spending a 40-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Casey, Cider Mill Hill road, Russell.

Spec. Casey was a member of the 25th Infantry Div., stationed at Pleiku in the Highlands, about 250 miles from Saigon. He took part in combat operations, Longfellow, Paul Revere, phases 1, 2, 3, and 4. Their brigade set a record of the longest consecutive days in the field, a total of 231.

He states that the Vietnamese are striving for their freedom but at the same time are not doing as much for themselves as they could be doing. He said he thought that the servicemen, most of them anyway, feel that they are doing the right thing by being over there, or the Communists would just keep grabbing more and more and eventually would bring war to American soil.

Spec. Casey is a graduate of Warren High School, 1965, and enlisted in August following graduation. He received his basic at AIT, Fort Gordon, and attended Jump School at Fort Benning, Ga. He was in a group of 96 from there, who joined the 25th Infantry division, in January as replacements in Pleiku, where casualties had been heavy.

His next assignment is Fort

Hauacha, Arizona for four months' training and then will go to Fort Bragg, N. C. to join the 82nd Airborne Div.

Hold a Mardi Gras Buffet Supper

The carnival spirit prevails at this Mardi Gras buffet party. The festive board is generously laden with a choice of entrees, both colorful and eye-catching: "Cornish Hens with Confetti Stuffing" and "Shrimp Creole."

A tossed green salad with marinated vegetables, cornbread sticks with butter, and coconut cake with demitasse coffee or cafe brulot complete this Southern-style feast. It wouldn't be Mardi Gras without lots of confetti. Bright bits of paper confetti should decorate the table. A "Confetti Stuffing" made of packaged, seasoned stuffing mix tossed with chopped green pepper and pimento dress up the Cornish game hens. The ingredient that moistens this savory stuffing is convenient canned tomato sauce with cheese. It also adds deep rich color to the mixture. And, thanks again to canned tomato sauce with cheese in the basting sauce, the hens take on an appetizing blush of color as they roast.

Other February parties you might celebrate with this tempting choice of entrees: Ground Hog Day, Lincoln's birthday, Washington's birthday. (Remember, the party always seems more special when you offer a choice of entrees.)

CORNISH HENS WITH CONFETTI STUFFING
1 (7½ oz.) pkg. seasoned stuffing mix
¼ cup chopped celery
1/3 cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup chopped onion
2 Tablesp. chopped pimento
2 (8-oz.) cans tomato sauce with cheese
¾ cup hot water
1 chicken bouillon cube
½ cup butter
1 Tablesp. brown sugar
4 Cornish game hens (about 1 lb. each)

Toss seasoned stuffing mix with celery, green pepper, onion and pimento. In a saucepan, combine 1 can tomato sauce with cheese, hot water in which bouillon cube has been dissolved, ¼ cup butter and brown sugar, heat. Pour over bread and vegetable mixture, tossing with a fork to moisten evenly.

Stuff hens with stuffing and truss, tying legs and wings close to body. Place in roasting pan. Melt remaining ¼ cup butter; brush hens with some of the butter. Roast at 350 degrees F. for 1½ to 2 hours. Add 1 can tomato sauce with cheese to remaining melted butter and baste hens with this during last hour of roasting. Makes 4 servings.

SHRIMP CREOLE
1 onion, chopped
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 cup uncooked rice
3 Tablesp. pure vegetable oil
1 (14½ oz.) can solid pack tomatoes
2¼ cups hot water
2 Tablesp. lemon juice
2 cups canned or cooked shrimp
1 teas. salt
¼ teas. pepper

Saute onion, green pepper and rice in oil in large skillet. Add tomatoes, water, lemon juice, shrimp, salt and pepper. Cover and simmer 25 minutes or until rice is done. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

DAY FOR MERRYMAKING

Mardi Gras, literally "fat Tuesday," is a day for merrymaking, good spirits and bountiful good food. This gala buffet features two entrees: Cornish Hens with Confetti Stuffing and Shrimp Creole. Other goodies to choose from: tossed green salad with marinated vegetables, hot cornbread sticks with butter, and coconut cake for dessert. Serve demitasse coffee or cafe brulot.

For February Parties

All the February holidays—Lincoln's Birthday, St. Valentine's Day and Washington's Birthday—offer opportunities for lots of coffee parties with your favorite friends. For just such an occasion, we recommend this scrumptious Coffee Ice Cream Log Roll accompanied by bracing cups of coffee.

The Log Roll makes an elegant appearance, though it isn't as difficult to prepare as you might suspect. The light, spongy cake is easy to make; it is only the process of rolling and filling that requires care. But once you've spread the cake with the softened ice cream and put it in the freezer, your worries are over. All that's left is the easy Coffee Frosting which takes but a few minutes to whip up and spread.

Decorating the Log Roll is lots of fun, so take your time and get a pleasing, artistic effect. One of the unusual features of this rich, refrigerator dessert is that the frosting and ice cream look alike and have the same light, coffee color. It's a surprise for guests to find each have their own distinctive texture and individual taste.

BREW TO CAPACITY

Hot, fragrant coffee is a wonderful contrast to a frosty ice cream dessert. It will be especially good if it's made with newly-bought ground coffee and a carefully washed coffee-maker. Since coffee-makers work best at capacity, the more near to capacity you brew the better the coffee will be.

To guarantee an empty coffee pot at the end of every party, take this bit of brewing advice: Use one Approved Coffee Measure (equal to two level measuring tablespoons) of coffee to each six ounces of water, per serving. When the seconds and thirds are requested, you'll be glad you brewed to capacity!

COFFEE ICE CREAM LOG ROLL

½ teaspoon salt
4 eggs
¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup pancake mix
1 quart coffee ice cream
Coffee Frosting+

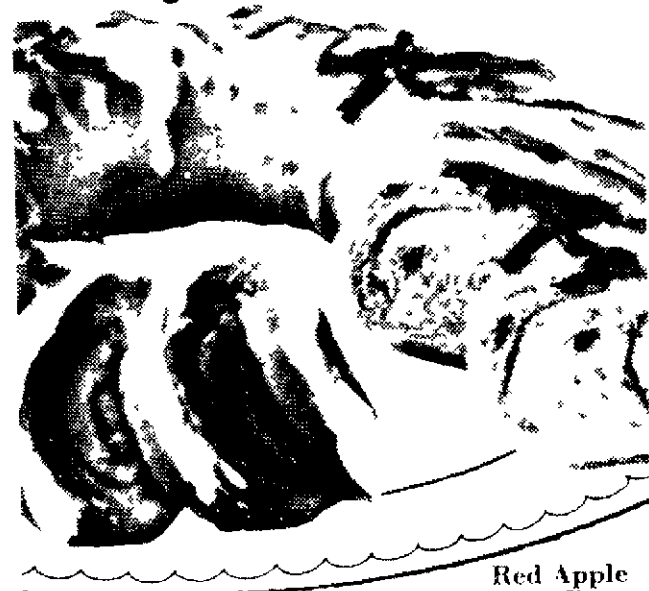

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Grease bottom and sides of 10 x 15-inch jelly-roll pan. Line with wax paper. Grease again thoroughly. Add salt to eggs. Beat until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar to eggs, a little at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla and pancake mix. Stir until smooth. Spread evenly in greased wax paper-lined pan. Bake 10 to 12 minutes. While cake roll is baking, sprinkle a dry towel well with confectioners' sugar. As soon as cake is done, loosen edges and turn out on towel. Peel wax paper carefully from cake. Roll cake in towel. Let stand 20 minutes, then unroll. Soften ice cream slightly and spread over cake roll. Roll up quickly. Wrap in aluminum foil. Place in freezer several hours. (May be made several days in advance.) Just before serving, spread with Coffee Frosting. Serve immediately or return to freezer until time to serve. Makes 8 servings.

COFFEE FROSTING

Cream 1/3 cup butter or margarine. Add 1½ cups confectioners' sugar while continuing to cream. Add 2 tablespoons strong, cold coffee. Add another 1½ cups confectioners' sugar and enough strong, cold coffee to make frosting fluffy and easy to spread on cake.

Freeman Acts to Bolster Farm Prices and Income

Gerald Bensink, Warren County office manager, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, reports that Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has announced action to help strengthen farm prices and income prospects during 1967.

"With farmers caught once again in a cost-price squeeze, I hope other sectors of the economy, as well as consumers, will give increasing thought to the question: How important is it, in today's uncertain and half-hungry world, to maintain a vigorous and prosperous farm productive plant? I think there can be no more urgent need. To that end, the Department of Agriculture will take certain actions to help strengthen farm price and income prospects this year," said Freeman at a recent meeting of farm leaders, trade organization people and other agricultural representatives to review the farm outlook.

Among a wide range of measures, the Secretary listed:

1. Expanded Section 32 purchases — probably approximately 40 per cent higher this fiscal year than total of $117 million last year. Purchases of such products as beef, orange juice, pork, turkeys, shortening, margarine, beans and a number of fruits, will help strengthen market prices and augment foods made available to the School Lunch and Welfare Programs.
2. Expanded Food Stamp Program. Now operational in an additional 258 communities, bringing total to 589. This expansion will enlarge food purchases by 800,000 additional consumers and help strengthen farm prices.
3. Continued heavy food for freedom shipments. Expenditures in moving U. S. farm products to under-developed countries last year were over $1 1/2 billion.
4. Domestic Market Development. Plentiful foods program is continuing, to stimulate sales of products in heavy supply, such as wool, cotton and dairy products, to increase domestic sales.
5. Foreign market development. Commercial exports of farm products were record high in 1966. Vigorous export development programs, including selective use of export subsidies, will be employed in 1967 to raise them even higher.
6. Support prices. Department of Agriculture increased support prices on a selective basis this past year. "We stand ready to review needs for similar actions in 1967, where authority and funds are available," says Freeman.

State Advances $140,000, Push Vo-Tech Project

DuBois — The state will advance $140,000 to the member districts of the Jefferson County-DuBois Vocational Technical School, according to an announcement by Vo-Tech officials.

The advance money will pay the site acquisition costs and a major portion of the architect's fee. The grant will be loaned prior to the time bids for the school are opened and accepted. All money advanced by the state will be returned by the Vo-Tech district.

Contrary to a report Saturday, the state is not paying for the preliminary costs as outlined, rather loan funds so that Vo-Tech work can proceed without further delay.

The signed lease agreements have been presented to the State Building Authority officials in Harrisburg.

The Vo-Tech operating committee met Monday night at Brookville where Thomas Large, architect, displayed drawings of classrooms and their location in the building. The general advisory committee is scheduled to meet Feb. 20 in Reynoldsville.

Former Corry Man Figures In New Trouble

CORRY — A former Corry man now living in Cleveland, Ohio, kept city police here busy Saturday night when he made three attempts to enter a house where a woman lives to whom he is allegedly married.

The woman, police said, has two children fathered by the former Corryite. The man is a parolee and reportedly not supposed to leave the state of Ohio.

Police were called to the house at 5:20 p.m., Saturday when the man made the first attempt to get in. He told officers he wanted to see his children and try to effect a reconciliation with the woman. After the first call, officers checked with Erie County parole officer Robert Jury, who said if the man got in trouble again to notify the county office.

The woman was advised to get a warrant for the man's arrest if she wanted to take action against him.

There were two more calls to police and two more trips to the house before the night was over, but no arrest was made.

Open Dairy Feeding Program

Dr. Richard Adams, Pennsylvania State University College of Agriculture will conduct the first of five dairy feeding clinics at 1:30 p.m., Thursday, February 2, at Sugar Grove Fire Hall. The series is offered in cooperation with U. S. Department of Agriculture and Warren County Extension Service.

Bernie Wingert, Warren County extension agent, reports excellent advance registration for the five sessions, each Thursday beginning February 2 and ending March 2.

"Feeding Dairy Cows for Good Health" is Dr. Adams' theme for the opening clinic. This will include relation of nutrition to ketosis, milk fever, rickets and other problems. "This is the first of the series of specialized feeding programs in depth," says Wingert.

The clinics are open to all dairy farmers or others interested. There will be opportunity for discussion and questions.

The series has been arranged at the request of dairy farmers of Warren County. Other participants in subsequent weeks include Don Ace, Harvey Schaffer and William Johnstone, eminent specialists in the field.

Corry and Union City Clubs Fined

CORRY — The Corry and Union City Veterans of Foreign Wars Clubs were among those cited recently by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board for license suspensions.

The Corry club located on West Washington st., was fined $500 for making sales to non-members and the same fine imposed on the Union City club for an identical charge.

Sugar Grove Car in Crash

A Warren County motorist was one of two persons involved in a two-car traffic mishap Saturday morning at the main four corners in Ashville, N. Y. Chautauque County sheriff's deputies William A. Tornstrom and Millard Wilson, who investigated, said a car driven by Eileen R. McAllister, 26, of Summer Haven, Mayville, N. Y., was unable to stop for a flashing red light at the intersection, slid through it and struck a car operated by Edward W. Braley, 18, of RD 3, Sugar Grove, pushing the latter off the road.

Mrs. McAllister suffered a leg injury in the 8:45 a. m. accident.

Steal from Rectory

KANE — For the second time in a few weeks, a sneak thief has robbed an open safe in the rectory of St. Callistus Church here. Saturday evening about $75 in cash was taken, while a few weeks ago, the thief took $87. On the recent visit, a check—an insurance voucher for the amount of the loot in the previous robbery—was also stolen.

Chautauqua Will Hear New Bells

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y. — New bells will peal from the tower at Chautauqua next summer.

Four bells will be added to the 10-bell chime in the historic Miller Bell Tower in Miller Park on the lake shore.

A new chiming clock and a new console will be installed. The improvements will be completed before the opening of the 94th season, President Curtis W. Haug announced.

The lower landmark at the Point was built in 1911 in memory of Lewis Miller, co-founder of the institution.

Mr. Miller died in 1899, a quarter century after he and Bishop John Heyl Vincent started the little summer colony in a woodland setting as a summer school for Sunday School teachers.

Mr. Haug said the new bells and console are gifts of Miller descendants, many of whom are present-day Chautauquans.

One of the four is the 1000-pound Bryant bell which has been unused in the tower many years.

The other three will be cast in Holland by the Verdin-Fritsen Foundry. Helm Fritsen, an executive of the foundry, was here Sunday with Robert Pochedley of Tonawanda, to test the tuning of the present bells.

vision has made america great

Men of vision and dedicated people have made America the industrial, manufacturing, and retailing leader of the world.

Take our founder as an example.

More than a century ago, he envisioned a new concept of efficient, low-cost mass food distribution. This concept set the stage for the development of today's modern A&P and for today's entire food retailing industry.

Similar vision characterizes the current management of A&P:

Men who recognize the cost-saving potential of computerized warehousing and ordering.

Men who are applying practical automation to manufacturing facilities.

Men who are relocating distribution centers to take advantage of modern transportation and roads.

Men who are constantly on the lookout for better, more efficient methods of food handling.

Men who are, as always, dedicated to the basic concept of our founder: TO BRING THE MOST GOOD FOOD, TO THE MOST PEOPLE, FOR THE LEAST AMOUNT OF MONEY.

WARREN NATIVE EMBASSY ATTACHE IN CANBERRA, AUSTRALIA

Zwald Writes of Visit to Norfolk Island

Hubert L. Zwald, a Warren native, who is serving as second secretary and attaché at the American Embassy in Canberra, Australia, keeps in touch with friends and relatives here, and at the same time outlines some of his experiences.

Zwald writes that he and his wife recently had occasion to pay a good visit to a remote part of the world—Norfolk Island, which is about 1,000 miles east of Australia, 500 miles north of New Zealand and not too far from Tahiti.

The attaché and his wife, he said, were with American Ambassador and Mrs. Edward Clark and six other Americans including the Naval Attaché, who piloted his twin engine plane.

Zwald noted that Norfolk was a British Penal Colony years ago and later became a penal colony for Australian convicts, Pitcairn Island, where the crew of the "Bounty" sought refuge, is not too far from Norfolk.

In his letter, dated January 23, 1967, Zwald said many of the people they met could trace their ancestors back to these early settlers and that many interesting tales were related. He said one could almost visualize the Bounty anchored in port.

During the five day visit, the people went all-out to entertain the American guests. There are 900 citizens on this little island, which is eight miles long and five miles wide, and at least half of them greeted the Ambassador and his party when the plane put down on the grassy runway. These were the first visitors they had seen in many months and a holiday was proclaimed so all could join in the festivities.

Ambassador Clark has taken quite a number of such trips in and around Australia and each time takes members of the Embassy staff. Only recently he returned from a trip to the Antarctic and it was on this occasion the Zwalds planned a reception at their home in order to hear of Clark's experiences at the South Pole.

Mr. and Mrs. Zwald are on a five year assignment in Australia and said they welcome it after having served in several less desirable countries. Upon completion of three years here, they will return to the United States for a three month vacation (summer of 1968).

Warren will be one of their first stops to visit with the secretary's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Zwald and family. He also hopes to see many of his old schoolmates—Warren High School, 1930.

Two Injured

MAYVILLE, N.Y.—Two men were hospitalized Monday in two separate accidents when their cars went out of control and struck trees. Warren Elkin, 45, 13 Prospect st., was admitted to Brooks Memorial Hospital with fractured ribs and possible internal injuries. Robert J. Finch, 32, of 25 High, Cassadaga, was admitted to the same hospital with a severe laceration on the forehead and fractured ribs when his car went out of control south of Arkwright.

A healthy head of hair is strong enough to support a 2,000-pound horse.
